BRITISH NAVY WAS NEAR TO PANIC

Helpless, Wilson Cabled Sims, According to Daniels at Senate Inquiry

By International News Service.

Washington, May 12.—"Helpless to the point of panic" was the characterization of the British navy made by President Wilson July 4, 1917, three months after we entered the war, in a cable to Rear Admiral Sims, United States naval attache in London, asking for a report on "exactly what the admiralty has been doing."

The President's cable read today before the Senate sub-committee investigating charges made by Sims against the Navy Department by Secretary of the Navy Daniels, made the flat statement that the trouble with the British Admiralty "is that their plans and methods do not seem to us efficacious."

"From the beginning I have been greatly surprised at the failure of the British Admiralty to use Great Britain's great naval superiority in an effective way," the President declared. "In the presence of the present submarine emergency, they are helpless to the point of panic."

"Every plan we suggest they reject for some reason of prudence. In

JUDGE AHERN FILES MORE MIRROR CASES

Judge Ahern, in accordance with his protest expressed last week against the severe penalties prescribed for violation of the law that requires mirror reflectors on certain types of motor trucks, today filed several such cases in Roxbury court. Penalties were inflicted only in those cases where the infraction was aggravated by other circumstances. Forty-five automobile cases were in court today, and fines totalling $103 were imposed.

NEW ENGLAND PAPERS MAY INCREASE PRICE

New England newspapers, published outside of Boston, may soon be increased to 3 cents a copy. This was indicated at the annual meeting of the New England Newspaper Alliance at the Worcester Country Club. The principal part of the business was given over to a discussion of the seriousness of the newsprint shortage, and it was the consensus that only through an advance in subscription and advertising charges could the situation adequately be met.

CHILD PLAYING WITH MATCHES BADLY BURNED

A fire which caused only $10 damage to property, may cost the life of four-year-old Annie Rosenstein, No. 8 Hollander street, Roxbury, who was taken to the City Hospital today suffering with severe burns. Her case is on the danger list. The fire started in the apartment occupied by Mary Rosenstein, the child's mother, and was caused by the child's playing with matches in bed.

SNUBBED, SAY LEGION MEN

World War Veterans Demand Their Banners Be Placed in Hall of Flags

Brigadier-General John H. Sherburne today declared that the world-war veterans demand that their flags be placed in the Hal of Flags with the "starry emblems" of the Civil War and that they are enraged because the State officials have thus far failed to give them this honor to which they are entitled.

"If the flags of the World War are not put into the Hall of Flags, there will a flare break out all over the Commonwealth," said General Sherburne to the House Ways and Means Committee.

"The members of the American Legion have an intense feeling about it. They went their flags given just as good a position as the flags of the Grand Army.

"There is an underlying feeling of indignation among the Legion men of the way they have been treated. You will be putting the torch to the fuel unless you act."

The flags have been placed in an $8,000 bronze receptacle in the Grand Staircase Hall, but the World War Veterans declare they must be exhibited in a niche in the Hall of Flags.

Twenty members, comprising the British Trade Mission to the United States, and their Dorothy Cook of Dudley, England, daughter of F. W. Cook, chairman of the party, arrived here today as the guests of the local Chamber of Commerce.

They came from New York and will leave this evening for Washington.

Arriving at the South Station, the party was met by members of the Retail Trade Board of the Chamber of Commerce, and went at once to the Copley-Plaza for breakfast. There they were welcomed by Mayor Peters. Other speakers at the breakfast were E. A. Filene, Chairman Cook of the party, Colonel D. M. Rose of Oxford, England, and Lewis Moore of Leeds, England.

Mayor Peters in his address emphasized the importance of the visit of the English guests toward promotion of friendly relations between the two countries.

Mr. Filene, referring to the odium attaching to profiteering, declared that retailers were "too modest" in exonerating themselves from charges of profiteering, and stated that he knew of no retailer netting more than 5 per cent. profit. He attacked

First Liner Owned by Negroes Arrives

The Black Star liner Yarmouth, owned by the Universal Improvement Association, an organization of eight million negroes, living in almost every city in the country, docked here today. It will remain in port two days before continuing to New York, to unload its cargo of cocoanuts from Jamaica.

The stay of the Yarmouth will be featured by a series of observances by Boston negroes in honor of the all-black crew of the first negro-owned liner. The principal event will take place tonight at the Ebenezer Baptist Church on Springfield street, where a reception and entertainment will be given, under the auspices of a welcoming committee, of which William C. Matthews, attorney and former Harvard football star, is the chairman.

The Yarmouth will be renamed the Frederick Douglas before leaving New York.

WIDOW WINS SANITY FIGHT

Two Doctors to Examine Mrs. Rice of Worcester by Order of Judge Pierce

Mrs. Mary B. Rice, an aged inmate of the Herbert Hall Hospital of Worcester, who some weeks ago declared she was being detained there by conspiracy, has won her fight for an examination as to her sanity.

Judge Pierce in Supreme Court today ordered that two physicians be selected by her counsel make a report upon her mental condition on May 24. On that date final arguments will be heard in the woman's fight to get a writ of habeas corpus releasing her from the institution.

Mrs. Rice maintained she was mentally competent, and that Rev. Mr. Mix and Dr. Robinson, her family physician, were in a conspiracy to rob her.

Dr. Walter C. Haviland, superintendent of the institution said she was a senile paranoiac and alleged wrongs were delusions.

Hunt Murder Suspect Pappas in Canada

The hunt for Paul Pappas, accused of the murder of Mrs. Alice Arsenault, Boston lodging house keeper, with whom he lived, led into Eastern Canada today.

Police of Boston and Springfield, where the suspect once lived, are confident that he is hiding in one of the big cities of the Dominion, and that he will be captured.

Inquiries were made today into the man's history, while in Springfield. He went to that city from Chicopee, and in 1916 served a jail term for carrying concealed weapons.

Mrs. Arsenault's body was found in an ash pile in the cellar of the lodging house she conducted at No. 81 Columbus avenue. The throat was cut.

The police charge that the murder was committed Christmas Day. They further charge that Pappas forged the woman's name to documents giving him the power of attorney, on the strength of which he secured $300 in cash and a note for $250.

Pappas was a room waiter at the Hotel Savoy. He has a brother in Springfield and another in Chicopee.

"KIDNAPING" IN EVERETT

AUTO FIRED UPON BY POLICE

Girl Believed Taken Away by Kidnapers After Street Quarrel in Everett

Dozens of shots were fired by Everett police today at two men believed to have kidnaped a young woman from Walnut street, [illegible] and carried her off in an automobile.

The machine was pursued through Everett and Malden, and vanished near Malden square.

The identity of the girl believed to have been kidnaped is not known, and Everett authorities are frankly baffled by the case. Authorities in surrounding cities and towns have been asked to be on the lookout for the automobile and its occupants.

Early today a Walnut street resident called the Everett police and told them a man and girl were engaged in a lively altercation on the sidewalk. He heard the girl say "I'll take you into court if you say anything about it."

A detachment of police was sent to the scene of the argument, and found the householder who had summoned them running about excitedly in his nightshirt and pointing at the tail light of a disappearing automobile.

He declared that the girl had been forced into it and was being carried off. The vain pursuit followed.

According to the person who informed the police, the automobile appeared in answer to the whistle of the man in the altercation, after the argument had become bitter, and the girl was becoming hysterical.

EXPECT WAGE INCREASE AT SALEM COTTON MILL

Salem, May 12.—It is understood the Naumkeag cotton mill here will reajust its wage scale to conform with the recently announced scale of the all River manufacturers. The management, it was stated, is following its usual policy of conforming with a general increase in textile centres. The Naumkeag mill has the reputation of paying the highest wage scale. The new increase, it is believed will become effective June 1. Operatives of the mill will meet tonight to discuss the situation.

PLANNED KILLING OF DOCTOR

Confession Shows Slaying of Zimmerman Followed His Refusal to Marry Cousin

Springfield, May 12.—Miss Jennie G. Zimmerman made up her mind three days before the shooting of her cousin, Dr. Henry Zimmerman, that she would kill him unless he married her, according to her own confession introduced in the murder trial today.

On the Saturday prior to the murder she also announced her intention of killing the doctor, according to the testimony of Mrs. Rose Broccilli, sister of the Feldman girls who testified yesterday.

Mrs. Broccilin further testified that in April, 1919, Jennie told her of her relations with the doctor and said he had promised to marry her.

The young woman's confession was introduced by Police Lieutenant James T. Raiche, who testified that he secured it at 4:30 on the day of the murder. At that time he said he told Miss Zimmerman the doctor was dead and that he wanted a statement. She replied she was sorry, he testified, and said she wanted to tell all.

"JENNIE," DOCTOR'S LAST WORD.

In the confession, read by District Attorney Charles H. Wright, the woman said that she met Dr. Zimmerman on Ferry street. "You have

PRESIDENT RECEIVES FOREIGN DIPLOMATS

By International News Service.

Washington, May 12.—Right thousand dollars' worth of whiskey, said by the authorities to have been stolen from L. Speidel & Company, No. 51 Kneeland street, South Boston, was seized in a raid on the Hotel Needham. The raiders, led by Prohibition Agent William McCarthy, secured three barrels, two kegs and more than 276 half pints of high proof liquor. It is thought the whiskey passed through several hands before reaching the Needham. No arrests were made.

'NEEDLE' AND STEALING GET MAN SIX MONTHS

For having a spyderemic kneedle in his possession Harry Wyman, who said he lived in the South End, was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction by Judge Sullivan in the Municipal Court today. He was given an additional three months for stealing three pairs of women's silk stockings from a department store. Wyman claimed that he bought the hosiery from a woman on the Common.

By International News Service.

Washington, May 12.—Walker D. Hines, retiring director-general of the railroad administration, will go to Europe on a special diplomatic mission for President Wilson at the end of this month. He will investigate industrial and business conditions in Europe and will conduct other inquiries at the behest of the President.

MALDEN POLICE TRANSFERRED

Patrolman Conneliey Resigns After Burbank Scores Department and Changes Routes

The biggest shake-up in the history of the Malden Police Department occurred today, after severe criticism of the work of the department, delivered by Commissioner Edwin C. Burbank to officers assembled at rollcall, and Patrolman Jeremiah Connelly handed in his resignation.

Those in touch with the local situation declare that Connelly, who has been with the department five years, is generally regarded as one of the best men on the force, and was not one of those at whom the commissioner's shafts were aimed.

Burbank shifted fourteen routes, changed officers with "bedding, bellyaching and hobnobbing with politicans," and added that there were half a dozen officers whose resignations he would be glad to receive. In the transfers which he was about to announce, he continued, some of the men might "be able to read between the lines and wake up." He was besieged, he said with complaints of "illegal goings on" in the city.

Connelly was one of those transferred. He was assigned to the Edgeworth from the Faulkner district. His resignation was handed to Captain Timothy J. Foley, the active head of the department, immediately after Commissioner Burbank had left. Connelly is married and lives at No. 81 Judson street.

CAPTAIN COODE OF BACK BAY FORCED TO REST

Following months of strenuous work attendant upon the police strike and the establishment of a new police department in Boston, Captain Thomas F. Goode of the Back Bay police station is confined to his home suffering from a general breakdown. He has been absent from duty for more than a week, and it is feared it will be many more weeks before he returns to his post. All during the weeks of the strike Captain Goode worked night and day without relief. During the Marathon he was riding in the side car of a departmental motorcycle leading the runners and their machines back to the B. A. A. clubhouse. Suddenly the pilot car of officials crashed into the side car, smashing it and injuring the captain.

GOODS WORTH $27,000 STOLEN FROM MILL

Worcester, May 12.—Travis H. Kell, formerly superintendent of dyeing at the Textile Leather Company plant in Auburn, was sought by the police today following the disappearance of $27,000 worth of finished cloth and wool, the property of the company and of the Auburn Worsted Company. Although Kell has not been seen by any member of either company for two weeks, the police have reason to believe he will return voluntarily.

GIVEN 5 TO 10 YEARS FOR FENWAY HOLDUPS

After William H. Garret had been identified in Superior Criminal Court today by Justin Williams as the man who assisted in robbing him of $150 in the Fenway three weeks ago, he was sentenced to from five to ten years in State prison. Garret and Robert Coughlan were arrested for three persons Clougher. It is alleged, had a slungshot in his possession. He was sentenced to a year in the Charles street jail.

3 Held in Auto Tire Thefts

Dominick Draffone of Prospect street, and Morris Mansfield of Charlestown, were held in $1,200 each and James Spinale was held in $600 as an accessory by Judge Sullivan in the Municipal Court today for alleged larceny of automobile tires from the Central Automobile Tire Company.

RETAILERS' MARGIN IS SLASHED

American Sugar Refining Company Announces 19½ Cents as Wholesale Price Today

The American Sugar Refinery Company announced today that the wholesale price of sugar at its Boston branch is nineteen and one-half cents.

United States Attorney Boynton announced today that the government had struck a blow at sugar profiteers, following the revelation that enormous stocks on hand in Boston were unobtainable by the consumer, or sold at prohibitive rates.

At the request of Attorney-General Palmer, Attorney Boynton announced that from now on the many gin of profit allowed wholesale and retail dealers in sugar would be cut and two cents a pound, respectively.

It was stated that no attempt had been made to fix a standard price, but that the profits would be figured on the purchase price in each case.

TO RESTRICT PROFITEERS.

The latest government action was considered to be the most stringent measure ever taken to restrict the profiteers, and it was stated that a close watch would be kept on all sugar dealers by the Department of Justice.

"This regulation will not result in the establishment of a standard price," said Attorney Boynton, "because the wholesalers and retailers have been buying sugar in various places and at the lowest possible price, which means that the margin of profit will be figured from the prices paid, which will not be uniform. Had the government bought the Cuban, Louisianian and best sugar and a standard price might have been set, but not so in the present case."

WITHHELD FROM CONSUMER.

It is estimated that sugar wholesalers have been making profits much greater than the one cent a pound permitted under the new ruling.

Twenty-five million pounds of sugar

Measures That Would Cure Most of the Troubles and Tendencies Which Distress and Alarm Us Today

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Gen. Wood's Backers Hurt Him by Prodigal Use of Money

Senator Borah does not impugn the personal integrity or question the ability of Major-General Wood when he calls public attention in the Senate to the fact that the financial backing of the Wood candidacy has been overdone and that the lavish use of money to secure his nomination for the Presidency has become a grave public scandal.

Whether the vast sums of money expended to secure delegates have been raised chiefly by Mr. Procter, of the Procter & Gamble Syndicate, or by the Du Ponts, we do not know. But the method is the same as that pursued by the syndicate that spent $670,000 to elect Mr. Newberry United States Senator from Michigan, thus securing control of the United States Senate, or of the syndicate that spent $2,000,000 to elect John Purroy Mitchel Mayor of New York three years ago to secure control of the city government.

Information presented to Senator Borah shows that Major-General Wood's campaign for delegates in Ohio cost about $650,000, as compared with $90,000 spent by the supporters of Senator Harden, "favorite son" of the State.

This expenditure gave Major-General Wood nine of the State's forty-eight delegates.

This cost of $72,000 for each Wood delegate from Ohio, if applied in other States—and the Wood campaign has been conducted with extragavant expenditures in many other States—would mean that a bare majority of the Republican National Convention would cost $35,496,000.

It is not necessary to suppose for an instant that any such preposterous sum has been or will be spent. But it is undoubtedly true that Major-General Wood's candidacy has cost several millions of dollars, and that a much greater sum has been wasted than was ever before spent to secure a nomination for the Presidency by either party.

It must be plain to everyone that if Major-General Wood is now nominated, his backers have already raised great obstacles against his success, because he must cut loose from them after his nomination to convince the American people that he is not controlled by the financial syndicate whose excess of zeal has spent so much money in his behalf.

When a syndicate of millionaires thus sets out to buy the Presidency of the United States, its object, however estimable the candidate may be, is plutocratic and not patriotic.

The idea that many rich men have that if they want a thing they have only to go out and buy it; that if they are willing to pay for something there is no reason why they should not have it; that anything can be bought for money proves that money is the root of all evil.

When control of elections is sought in this way, success poisons the source of all power in this country and the Government itself. If money succeeds, it then becomes the ruler and the Commonwealth is destroyed.

Other Nations Alive to Oil Problem; We Are Inactive

One of the direct effects of the war, becoming more and more apparent as the details of international conferences become public, is the realization that whoever has command of the oil supply in the next world war will control the most important single element in making war.

It is for this reason that at San Remo the control of lands producing coal and oil has been of the first consideration.

If, as it is reported, Great Britain has gained control of the oil fields of Baku and Batum in Russian Transcaucasia and is negotiating for practical ownership of the great Shell Transport & Trading Company with its petroleum interests, it may be taken for granted that England has, as usual, shown the best foresight.

According to the reports of the United States Geological Survey, the oil fields of this country, the richest in the world, have already become 40 per cent. exhausted, and a growing demand faces a diminishing supply.

With foreign governments adding to their oil resources, both by purchase and diplomacy, it becomes certain that the wants of the United States are in jeopardy.

Sir John Cadman, professor of mining in the University of Birmingham, speaking before the Royal Institution in London the other day, said:

One cannot overlook the fact that the United States are in a very strong position, but they are developing so fast that they are absorbing oil at a greater rate than ever.

That is the great danger. We are using faster than we are producing and we are producing faster than we are discovering, and the two conditions mean eventual famine.

There are two remedies which the Government should hasten to apply. One is to find a substitute for gasoline as a motor fuel. The other is to devise and apply some system of conservation which shall assure a dependable supply for governmental use.

The daily consumption of gasoline by motor vehicles is estimated at 12,000,000 gallons, with an annual increase of 25 per cent. To relieve the oil production of this demand by the substitution of some other fuel would go far toward solving a very important problem.

Captain Paul Foley, director of operations for the United States Shipping Board, stated the matter concretely when he said the other day:

Sixty-five per cent. of the present supply of oil is drawn from the United States, to which citizens of other countries have access on equal terms with us.

Of the future visible production, from 90 to 97 per cent. is under control of Great Britain, and available to British nationals only.

The United States government must secure for American nationals in British producing fields the same privilege of equal opportunity which it now extends to British nationals in American producing fields. Failing to secure this, it must take whatever legislative action may be necessary to protect its own resources.

Unless we are ready to accord to other countries a distinct advantage in a dependable fuel supply, we should take immediate steps to protect what we have and add to it as much as we are able.

More Truth Than Poetry

A Shattered Idol

By S. E. KISER

I REMEMBER when Sniggs was the life of the party,
His manner was easy and gay;
The clapping was loud and the laughter was hearty
When Sniggs had a part in the play.
He was always the centre, it seemed, of attention,
He never missed making a hit;
But his manner at present is hardly more pleasant
Than that of a cat in a fit.

THERE were people who used, when he rose at a table,
To roar before ever he spoke;
With a cocktail before him, he always was able
To start with a capital joke.
His stories were funny, his laughter was catching,
He was popular, petted and praised;
But something's the matter, his shots seem to scatter,
He talks as a man who is dazed.

I REMEMBER when people all over the city
Were saying that Sniggs was a scream;
He was jovial, quick on the trigger and witty,
But that was when Sniggs was agleam—
"Lit up," as it used to be called by good fellows,
In the days of the julep and fizz;
Now Sniggs is neglected, his look is dejected,
Gloom settles wherever he is.

THE people who thought him the funniest ever
Sit back and look bored when he speaks;
The nuts that he cracks, for some reason, are never
The cause of uproarious shrieks.
Perhaps Sniggs, who once was the life of the party,
Is not as well primed as before,
Or has wit ceased to glisten since people who listen
Go under the tables no more?

AS THEY properly should.
AND SO far as I know.
I'M THE only one.
WHO HAS said no word.
OF WHAT you wrote.
AND I wouldn't now.
IF IT hadn't been.
THAT I was impressed.
WITH WHAT you said.
AND I said to myself.
FOR TWENTY-THREE years.
YOU'VE BEEN sitting down.
AT YOUR morning meal.
AND YOU'VE looked across.
WHERE THE centrepiece is.
AND JUST beyond.
SHE'S BEEN sitting there.
IN GRIEF and joy.
AND RAIN and shine.
AND AT dinner time.
THROUGH ALL those years.
ON EVERY day.
SHE HAS been there.
AND HOW do you know.
I SAID to myself.
BUT IT might be.
THAT THE both of you.
WOULD BE happier.
IF ONE was away.
FOR A little while.
AND A week ago.
A LETTER came.
AND IT asked her to go.
FOR A couple of days.
TO THE home of a friend.
AND WE spoke of it.
AND I thought of you.
AND OF what you said.
AND ANYWAY, Fanny.
SHE WENT away,
AND WHETHER it was.
THAT THE coffee was bad.
OR MY eggs weren't done.
AS THEY should have been done.
OR THE toast wasn't buttered.
OR I lost my shirts.
OR WHETHER it was.
THAT THERE disappeared.
WHEN SHE went away.
SOME INTANGIBLE thing.
THAT SEEMS always near,
WHEN SHE is near.
AND THAT guards the days.
AND GUARDS the nights.
AGAINST LONESOMENESS.
WHICHEVER IT was.
OF ALL these things.
I'M SURE I don't know.
BUT WHATEVER it was.
I'M WRITING to say.
THAT YOUR scheme doesn't work.
AND OVER my shoulder.
MY WIFE says to tell you.
YOU'RE MISSING a lot.

I THANK you.

TRAVESTY OF JUSTICE ON ARMENIAN QUESTION

By Dr. H. S. Jelalian

THE eminent statesman and publicist, Lord James Bryce, insists that the expulsion of the Turk from Europe is long overdue, and that he ought to be driven where he is least dangerous to innocent Christian races, who have so long been suffering under the yoke of his tyranny. That the presence of the Turk in Europe has been an unmitigated curse, that the Turk as a governing agency has proved himself to be a total failure, that during his long reign of over five centuries, both in Adrianople and Constantinople, he has utterly failed to initiate a single measure for the amelioration of the bitter condition of the people are facts of history not to be gainsaid by any fair-minded man, no matter where his sympathies were in the world conflagration. This is authentic history. How shall we account for such an anachronism in the family of nations?

England's Blunder

Intensely pro-ally as I was during the war, my loyalty to the truth compels me to say that England was primarily responsible for the presence of the Turk on the Bosphorus. The Crimean war of 1854 was a colossal blunder which was waged for Turkey and against Russia. Mr. Gladstone himself deplored the fact, and Lord Salisbury natively declared: "We backed the wrong horse."

Nothing in human history was more revolutionary than the British attitude toward Russia during the war. There is, however, a fundamental difference between the English and German influences in Turkey. The English influence was political and economic, while the German influence turned out to be military, which brutalized the natural fighting instincts of the Turk.

Poland of the East

But now things have come to another pass. During the war the allies, under the impelling force of President Wilson's declarations, pretended to believe in the principle of self-determination for small nations, who would be restored to their national heritages. Armenians thereupon unanimously decided to have America be the mandatory over the integral Armenia, from the Caucasus down to the Mediterranean. But this did not suit the secret treaties entered upon between England, France and Italy, who have gone ahead to partition the country in accordance with the dictates of their own imperial interests. If this thing is sanctioned by a treaty between Turkey and the allied powers, Armenia will be the Poland of the East, divided into Russian Armenia under the shadow of Mount Ararat, middle Armenia under England and into Cilicia under France.

What a travesty of justice! Oh! for an hour of Daniel Webster in the Senate of the United States. Turkey in Constantinople will be a stench in the nostrils of mankind. But what shall we think of France in Cilicia, where she has no business to be?

Letters to the Editor

Carmen's Pay

Editor Boston American:

In regard to the increase of wages for the carmen of the Boston Elevated Railroad Company, I would like to say that if it is possible for a family of five to live, as stated in one of the morning papers, on $1,784 a year, where do the men get $1,784 a year on $33 a week? Besides, it is not possible for a family of five to live on $1,784 a year with the present high cost of food, clothing and rents. I am one of a family of five, and if my mother and I did not work to help feed us we would have to live on bread and tea three meals a day, seven days a week, and I was obliged to give up my schooling to go to work.

Editor Boston American:

We hear much about College "Hoover" Clubs. Is it strange that a citizen of Nova Scotia should head Technology's delegation to the College Hoover Convention? Why should outsiders be actively interested in our politics?

Perhaps by his long residence in British colonies Hoover may be considered as a fellow Britisher?

The Greatest Miracle
Time to Stop Mourning

President Wilson yesterday saw the circus parade from the east portico of the White House.

A more interesting circus parade is coming next Fall if the Democratic party runs a national campaign based on subjection of this country to the League of Nations. The Democratic candidate will be seen trying to ride the trick mule.

There is no doubt about President Wilson's whole-hearted enthusiasm when he says that the Democratic party must at once proclaim itself "advocate of everything that the United States can do in the service of humanity." It is a beautiful sentiment, two thousand years old. It was originally put in the following words:

"Sell all that thou hast and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come, follow Me."—St. Luke xviii., 23.

A number of nations call themselves Christian, but not any of them as yet have taken all they had and given to the poor, individually or collectively.

It will be some time before the United States takes all it has and gives it to Europe.

This country took many billions and handed them to the profiteers. The country requires time to recover from that burst of generosity before starting out to do "everything that the United States can do in the service of humanity."

Once post up in Europe the sign "If there is anything you want that you don't see, ask for it," and there soon wouldn't be much left.

"Dolores," dancer, is declared by Mr. Ziegfeld, father of "Follies," to be "the most beautiful girl in the world."

Be that as it may, Dolores, to improve her dancing, has had one small toe cut off, and thinks she may let the other small one go.

Does the number of toes worn by Mr. Ziegfeld's most beautiful girl mean nothing to humanity? It means much.

You, like Dolores, and all other living creatures, are undergoing gradual transformation.

The day may come when you will get along with two toes on each foot. The horse once had five, he is better off now with one.

A good dentist will say you would probably be better off with your four wisdom teeth out. Recently human beings have carried thirty-two teeth as a full set. Previously they had more. Soon we shall cut the number to twenty-eight.

While our foreheads have got bigger, our jaws have grown smaller, and now a full set of teeth are too many for the average mouth.

If, next to the Public Library, you should put a tent with "Jo Jo, the Dog Faced Boy," tattooed man, Barnum's "What is it," and a bearded fat lady on free exhibition, how many would go into the library and how many into the tent?

The average church is not overwell attended, although its members deal earnestly with subjects that that should interest all citizens. When Trinity Church, biggest, richest Episcopal church in America, invites Mr. Hickson, the "English healer," to talk, it is packed, a thousand have to stand, and "one young man fainted."

Mr. Hickson believes that he cures the sick. There is no doubt that he gathers them together and gives them a chance to infect each other. He said, "Christ gave to His Church the wonderful power of healing, and that healing has ceased, because faith died."

Since the days of miraculous healing, when the leper was made clean, men have been taught to think and cure themselves. Incidentally they have practically wiped out leprosy. They can cure and entirely eliminate other diseases. That is better than gathering together in one church a few of the sick, to deceive them with false hopes or stimulate them with hysterical excitement. The greatest of all miracles is science, and it's real.

The people don't want and won't have the sentimental League of Nations, therefore government should turn its attention for a while to the welfare of the people of the United States.

According to Hoover, who knows, this country last year "coolly" bought the Cuban sugar crop at six and one-half cents a pound." If that had been done, you would be getting your sugar now for twelve cents.

It may not be as important to give twelve-cent sugar to the American family as it would be to give flannel waistcoats to the inhabitants of Mesopotamia or peace of mind to the hill dwellers in Armenia.

TELLS OF QUARREL ON NIGHT MRS. ARSENEAULT WAS SLAIN

A slip found in Mrs. Arsenault's room contained the names of Misses Edna and Alice Lellera, No. 3 Lloyd street, Lynn. Inquiry at that address showed that Miss Edna Lellera had moved to New Brunswick and that Miss Alice lived at No. 29 Northern avenue.

The latter denied knowing the murdered woman, and did not know how a card bearing her name and address could have been found in the room.

The discovery of Alice Arsenault's body burned beneath hundreds of pounds of ashes in the basement revealed a weird murder mystery as Boston has experienced in many years. The body was clad in an apron, nightgown, kimona, and on one foot was a felt slipper.

MAY HAVE LEFT COUNTRY.

The discovery was accidental, made months after Paul Pappas had checked himself out of Columbus avenue hotel. Today a vigorous search is being conducted for him. Some fear that possibly he has secured passports and fled the country.

In the course of the investigation it developed that on Christmas afternoon, during the progress of a domino game there was an argument between Pappas and Mrs. Arsenault. Soon thereafter she vanished, not to be seen again. Nor was Pappas seen again during the holiday, but several days later he was around.

Mrs. Lena Kokas, a one-time lodger at No. 317 Columbus avenue, proved a fountainhead of information to Sergeant William Carey of East Dedham street station and Inspector James Dennessey of headquarters, in their investigation. She lived at the house and was present during the quarrel over the domino game on Christmas Day.

"Pappas, with Mrs. Arsenault and another young man, were playing dominoes in my room," said Mrs. Kokas today, "when suddenly something happened to whatever it was a quarrel. They left the room and never again did I see her. Nor did I see him again that day.

TRACKS WELL COVERED.

Mrs. Kokas told substantially the same story to Judge Murray in the Municipal Court. Inspector Dennessey and Sergeant Carey also told the judge of their investigation. When the hearing was completed it was announced that a warrant had been issued charging Pappas with the murder of Mrs. Arsenault.

The hunt for him today includes visits to Quincy, Revere, Chelsea, Springfield and other Massachusetts towns. The police have had no definite trace of him for several weeks. His chances of escape were made perfect by the delay in finding the body.

Following is a description of Pappas: Five feet eight inches in height, weighing about 160 pounds, of dark, swarthy complexion, smooth face, dark eyes and curly hair combed in pompadour fashion.

Inspectors are anxious to locate Mrs. Arsenault's husband, formerly of Hoven. They desire to question him most completely regarding her past life.

She was said to have been thrifty and it is believed that the murderer secured a considerable sum of money, in addition to the $200 he received for the sale of the house.

At the City Hospital Morgue today numerous persons who knew Mrs. Arsenault called to view the remains and make positive the identification. Medical Examiner Leary wanted this done for the purpose of establishing beyond question that the body was that of Mrs. Arsenault.

SAW A HUMAN HAND.

Stephen Mella, of No. 566 East Third street, South Boston, an employe of the Public Works Department, discovered the body while clearing the cellar of the Winter's accumulation of ashes. He had removed a considerable of ashes when he suddenly saw an arm protruding from beneath the pile. The police were at once notified.

PLANS FOR BIG RUSSIAN ARMY TO FIGHT JAPAN

San Francisco, May 12.—Consolidation of the Russian armies and increasing them to 2,500,000 men to attack the Japanese forces now occupying Vladivostok will be attempted by Colonel A. A. Krakovetsky, who was head of the Russian government at Vladivostok when the Japanese took over the city. Escaping from the Japanese, Colonel Krakovetsky made his way to the United States army transport Mount Vernon and his presence on that ship remained a secret until today. He said Japan now is the foe of Russia nationally, and that he is proceeding to Petrograd to raise an army to hurl against the Mikado's forces.

SAYS U.S. MUST AID EUROPE

Half Billion Needed to Revive Industries, Declares Eliot Wadsworth

Economic revival in Eastern Europe can be brought about only by financial aid from the United States, to the extent of half a billion to a billion dollars used as a "revolving fund." This was the solution offered today by Eliot Wadsworth, delegate to the recent Red Cross Congress at Geneva, who gave an address at the Boston City Club. Mr. Wadsworth was the guest of the club at a luncheon.

He reviewed in detail the disheartening conditions in the small countries, where industry is practically at a standstill and children are starving, and declared that the Polish soldiers fear peace more than war. In contrasting economic conditions of Eastern Europe before the war with the present situation, the speaker said:

"There is no such things as a gold basis. The paper money so lavishly created constantly fluctuates, but the general trend is to a steadily lower value as compared to a loaf of bread or a pair of shoes."

Speaking of Vienna, he said: "Its two million people are living largely in idleness and on government allowance. For lack of coal the people seldom have cooked food and very little heat. Into the stricken city has come American help in two ways. The children have received from the American Children's Feeding Association a good meal of 650 calories each week day. To some it is the only meal of the day. There can be no doubt that this gift from America has saved hundreds of thousands from death or serious and permanent injury."

The industries which are now idle, Mr. Wadsworth said, would even if revived find their markets gone. New markets must be found. He suggested first the raising of a "revolving fund" of $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000, continuing:

"Technical experts could go to a city like Riga, pick out a few mills, determine what was needed in the way of raw material, fuel and accessories. These supplies could be purchased and shipped direct. A proper proportion of the finished product would be turned back to the fund for sale in the markets of the world, to repay the advances. I am convinced that it would take only a comparatively small beginning to bring new hope and new credit to private enterprise."

GIRL 'PLANNED' SLAYING

Confession of Miss Zimmerman Read at Springfield Death Trial

wronged me," she said she told him; "are you going to do anything about it?"

"No, I am not," the doctor answered, according to the confession. "You can go as far as you like."

The young woman said she fired several shots at the doctor, who died Jennie Lind and then fell.

In the confession she stated that Zimmerman had borrowed $200 from her at different times. In January or February of 1916 she claimed that he performed an operation on her at his office, and again in May of 1918. She said he was responsible for her condition and had promised to marry her.

On August 4, according to the confession, the young woman called the doctor at his office on the telephone, but he hung up the receiver without talking. She said she then made up her mind that if he did not do what she wanted him to do she would kill him. The revolver was purchased the next day.

REVOLVER IDENTIFIED.

Miss Zimmerman bought a revolver two days before the doctor was shot to death, it was declared in court today.

The weapon which the State alleges was used to kill the doctor was identified as one Miss Zimmerman purchased from Valentine F. Skiff, manager of the sporting department of the Carlysle hardware store.

Skiff declared Miss Zimmerman told him she intended to keep it in her room for protection.

The accused girl was unshaken while the weapon was being produced and identified and while the court later conferred with attorneys for the State and defence as to whether or not the confession should be allowed as evidence.

The court room was crowded with women. Members of the Women's Club who were associated with Miss Zimmerman in Red Cross work were conspicuous in the bar enclosure.

DOCTOR TESTIFIES.

Dr. Patrick M. Lynch, the physician who received Dr. Zimmerman's body at the Mercy Hospital, where it was taken after the shooting, told the man was dead when he examined him, and that there were wounds in his chest and shoulder.

Dr. Sylvester E. Ryan, assistant medical examiner, who made the autopsy, described the four bullet wounds in the doctor's body.

He was sharply cross-examined by Attorney William G. McKechnie of the defence.

Captain Joseph A. Murphy of the Springfield police department identified the gun with which the shooting is alleged to have been done. He said he got it from the defendant when he arrested her at North and Ferry streets, shortly after the tragedy. All five shells were empty, he declared. He told of questioning Miss Zimmerman later the same day in the presence of Lieutenant Ralche.

"Lassie" Will Fly to Aid "Sallies" Drive

MRS. ADAM GIFFORD.

Mrs. Adam Gifford, the oldest Salvation Army "Lassie" in point of service in New England, will fly tomorrow in an effort to boost the lagging response to the Salvation Army Home Service Appeal.

In a seaplane, piloted by Ensign J. Morgan Corbett of Somerville, Mrs. Gifford, who is fifty-three years old, will circle the the dome of the State House. Then from hundreds of feet in the air, she will scatter thousands of campaign appeals all over the city proper. It will be her first airplane voyage.

Subscriptions to the fund today totaled less than $20,000.

Subscriptions yesterday included one of $1,000 from L. J. Mutty and one of $2,000 from Hornblower & Weeks.

ASKS BAN ON WOMEN SMOKERS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, May 12.—Chicago is going to ban women smokers. Alderman Adamowski has prepared an ordinance to prevent women smoking in public places and has invited discussion from the fair sex. The first "discussion" he got was by mail. It read: "You are a back number boob. Go and learn something." Adamowski says he took up the discussion of women smoking in public because of the impression it made on one of his daughters.

GREET BRITISH TRADE ENVOYS

Boston Officials and Merchants Welcome London Commercial Mission

the speculators in necessaries as the real cause of the high cost of living.

Mr. Filene said the problems of British and American business men were much the same, and outlined trade improvements he has been advocating for some time.

He alluded to the desire of the workers for a part in the management of the stores, said that such a desire must sometime be satisfied, and declared that in this kind of industrial democracy England was ahead of America.

Mr. Filene deplored the tendency of the consumer to blame the retailer for high prices. He said that the average retailer did not make more than 1 per cent. net on a sale, although admitting that the price of many articles doubled between the producer and the consumer.

Mr. Filene said in part: "High prices are not our fault, yet because we are on the firing line we are blamed. The fault lies not with retailers, but with the system which requires or permits goods to pass through so many hands in their journey to the consumer.

WAGES "COUNTERFEIT."

"That the consumer is restless is not to be wondered at. Wages and salaries have increased, but they lag behind rising prices. The worker is being paid what I call 'counterfeit' wages, which will not buy him as much as smaller wages years ago. Several things are wrong, among them improper speculation and graft in private and public business.

"We are also faced with underproduction. This is caused in part by industrial unrest. But the wage question is only part of this unrest. Labor wants a voice in the management of the industry that employs it. If we are to have industrial harmony we must satisfy this desire. You in England have gone further than we in this regard.

"But the United States is moving toward the proper goal. I have great hopes for the future. May I say that in our own store in this city we have worked out a scheme of employes representation in management. We have found it a good paying business proposition as well as a sound social principle."

Mr. Filene outlined the reforms in the retail trade with which his name has become identified, such as collective buying, co-operation with employes, profit-sharing and elimination of unnecessary overhead costs.

After breakfast the party divided to make individual trips, some visiting local department stores and factories, others going to Plymouth, Lynn and other industrial points. Reassembling at the Copley-Plaza for luncheon they were addressed by Governor Coolidge. In the afternoon the visitors were taken to the Braeburn Country Club, where they remained for dinner.

MEMBERS OF PARTY.

The party includes, besides those mentioned: E. B. Weeks, F. Gross, F. Chilcelin, A. N. Holleby, C. P. Webber, Charles T. Codling, T. M. Hardwick, F. H. Barker, W. T. Hunter, Frederick Longley, A. Matthews, John Boardman, Lewis Tyne, A. W. Thomas, T. Lancaster, F. O. Key and W. T. Hopton.

Accompanying the British guests was an escort of ten members of the United States Chamber of Commerce and other prominent business men, who are touring the country with the party. The business women of Boston were represented in the welcoming party by Mrs. Lucinda W. Prince, secretary of the educational division, National Retail Dry Goods Association, and first teacher of scientific salesmanship in this city.

Sale Solid Silver Army Wrist WATCHES For Boston and Vicinity

$5 Guaranteed 20 Years Jewelled Adjusted

Price During the War $25

Taking into consideration that there were more than one thousand dealers after this lot of Army Watches, much regret is due Mr. Fralman, president of the Lenox Jewelry Co., for his untiring efforts in securing them, which number many thousands and give to this company the exclusive sale for Boston. During the war these rugged little timepieces could not be made fast enough to supply the United States Army and Navy. Every one of them is beautifully jewelled and adjusted and so marked. Furthermore, this company's guarantee goes with every one for 20 years. We offer them for sale at $5.00 each, with the distinct understanding that the money (every cent of it) will be refunded if watches as good in every particular can be purchased anywhere for less than $25.00. Mail orders will be filled if accompanied by remittance for any number until our stock is exhausted. Do not forget that these Watches are Solid Silver through and through and so stamped by the Government so there can be no mistake. All have luminous faces that can be seen at night; in fact, the darker the night the plainer you can see the time. They are also all fitted with non-breakable glasses that will actually bear a man's weight without breaking.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS CAUSE APPALLING LOSS OF LIFE

13 CHILDREN KILLED IN 38 FATAL MISHAPS

By CHARLES O. POWER.

Thirteen children were among the victims of thirty-seven fatal automobile accidents in this State last month. Just think of that!

Nineteen drivers of cars were arrested last month for being under the influence of liquor. So this is prohibition! That is the record of joy riding come to grief. There were several others reported who "got away with it."

The officials of the newly-organized Public Works Commission of Massachusetts, having charge of the enforcement of laws affecting automobilists, are much concerned at the record of deaths and personal injuries caused by automobiles in this State.

They are more than concerned. They are alarmed. They say they intend to do something about it right away. They are working out a program which they hope will revolutionize conditions on the streets and highways and make for a much higher degree of public safety and convenience.

DEMAND CO-OPERATION.

They want to bring about a better spirit of co-operation between the drivers of trucks and motor cars and the drivers of both and the walking public. They will endeavor to point out some of the more common errors that could be avoided by the exercise of a little patience and courtesy.

"For those who will not play the game, for the speed maniacs, the loose fighters, the glaring light fiends and those who "hog" the road, they intend to invoke the limit of the present law for punishment and to suggest new penalties that may be more quickly effacious.

Listen to John N. Cole, chairman of the commission: "This automobile accident problem is a very important one. It must be grappled with in a thorough manner. We have had it on our hands only three months, but we have been making a keen analysis of it. I have appointed Frank A. Goodwin as motor registrar and I consider him a well qualified man for the duties of the position. He is acting under my instructions, although given a free rein for initiative, and I shall back him up in his efforts to better the record of automobiling in Massachusetts.

NEW RIGHT OF WAY LAW.

"There is much to be done and much that can be done right away and more that can be done with new laws and regulations. A good start has been made. The Governor has just signed a law fixing the right of way. This is especially important where one car has to make a turn. It must go to the right and will have the right of way in doing it, so that the fellow driving straight ahead tries to keep him from it by bending to the left will be at fault if anything happens and can be properly punished if caught at it.

"Dazzling lights must be under better control, free from defects. But we should have more one-way streets. We should have more central garages or day storage places for cars than three and a half feet above the ground on a level road at a distance of fifty feet. Maximum light power must be fixed, but, more important than that, is to establish rules for the right focus so that it must stay on the ground.

STUDIES CONNECTICUT PLAN.

"The commission has sent men to Connecticut to study how the headlight question is handled there, for that State does not designate types and makes, if necessary, of dimmers and reflectors that must be used. In this State our officials have been afraid of laying down rules of favoring certain manufacturers and dealers if they did such a thing. I am not afraid of anything like that.

"I think we might go farther and tell automobile and truck manufacturers just how their products must be equipped as to lights before they can be sold in this State.

"Heretofore a lot of attention has been given to the keeping of records of accidents by the inspection department. It has been very helpful. Automobile lawyers seeking information for the trial of accident cases, that would help to put the cost up, have been frequent. It is vastly more important to do prevention work and it is much more important to do construction work.

MORE TRUCKS BIG PROBLEM

"The question of more big trucks on the roads in the very near future faces me. The increase in the number is astonishing in the last few years. And that business is not uncertain for it is a great relief for railroad freight traffic congestion. It will increase with every month. It can see it coming and coming fast. How are these lots of trucks to be viewed on the highways? Under what conditions shall they be operated? They will constitute a grave danger to public safety if not handled carefully. They will cause great damage to the State highways and the owners must expect to pay for that by being charged higher licensing fees.

"After trying for two years to unravel the red tape of the Navy Department I have just succeeded in having the deeds passed in the case of the dry dock at South Boston to the national government for about four million dollars. I have other big work, needing immediate attention, because of the reorganization of the department, in good shape, and in a few days I will go over with Mr. Goodwin all the personal matters of importance in handling this kind of work.

There should be a separate court or trial board established exclusively to the business of disposing of all but civil actions against violators of automobile laws and regulations, he believes. There is a juvenile court, a land court and an industrial accident trial board. An automobile court is more necessary than all of them, in the opinion of this official. There is too great delay in the trial of automobile cases and there is too much opportunity for the use of influence in behalf of the "good fellow" who is in bad. There are so many appeals from lower court decisions that the dockets of district attorneys become clogged at every term and they are disposed to get rid of many cases that should be tried.

MAY RESTRICT SHOPPERS.

This man also says that in a few years shopping automobiles will not be allowed to roam the downtown streets while women are seeking bargains. But one thing he positively believes it will be necessary to fix a parking limit in the vicinity of Charles street. Some method must be found to get rid of many cases that should be tried.

Here is what Michael H. Crowley, superintendent of police, has to say: "Boston, especially downtown, is not laid out for the easy handling of motor traffic.

"We have been fortunate in keeping the shopping district comparatively free from fatal accidents. But we should have more one-way streets.

"We should have more central garages or day storage places for cars than three and a half feet above the ground on a level road at a distance of fifty feet. Maximum light power must be fixed, but, more important than that, is to establish rules for the right focus so that it must stay on the ground.

Professor Rice Fought White Cannibals

Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice, who accompanied her husband to South America on his exploring voyage. Before her marriage to Dr. Rice she was Mrs. George D. Widener of Philadelphia.

Cannibals almost white in color infest the upper stretches of the River Amazon, according to Professor Alexander Hamilton Rice, Boston explorer, who has just returned from an expedition into the Brazilian jungle.

Scientific circles were much interested today by the Boston man's discoveries, as the man-eating savages hitherto reported by explorers have been black or brown in hue.

Dr. Rice was accompanied on his record-making trip up the Amazon by his wife, who was Mrs. George D. Widener of Philadelphia. They had an exceptionally good opportunity to observe the cannibals, as Indian dwellers in the tropics have I seen more vicious appearing savages.

"I recognized them as not one of the members of the man-eating tribes of the Guaribos, well-known Amazon dwellers, but practically unknown to civilization.

"We tried to parley, but they tried to rush us. We had only one revolver, a rifle and a shotgun. We fired volley after volley, and finally stopped the initial charge after we had killed several of them.

We fired several shots at the savage, when more than 200 natives, practically all in the nude, appeared suddenly from the bushes just across from us. They were armed with bows and arrows and spears and blow guns. They were more than six feet tall, man for man, and never in my journeys in the tropics have I seen

Scientific circles were much interested today by the Boston man's discoveries, as the man-eating savages hitherto reported by explorers have been black or brown in hue.

Dr. Rice was accompanied on his record-making trip up the Amazon by his wife, who was Mrs. George D. Widener of Philadelphia. They had an exceptionally good opportunity to observe the cannibals, as Indian dwellers in the tropics have I seen more vicious appearing savages.

"L" TO ABANDON UPKEEP WORK

Only What Is Absolutely Necessary Will Be Done, Declares Dana

With a deficit of $661,000 for 1919, the Boston Elevated has been obliged to abandon its plan for maintenance work the coming year, General Manager Edward Dana testified today before the special arbitration board at the State House. Manager Dana declared that only the work absolutely necessary to keep the rolling stock in repair would be done.

The one day off in seven, with pay, demanded by the men, he declared would cost the company $1,377,966 for the year, and double pay for overtime would cost $887,000. When the budget was made up January 1, he said, it was estimated that under the 10-cent fare the income would total fully $22,000,000. From this must be deducted the deficit of $661,000, and 71.5 per cent for operating expenses, amounting to nearly $23,000,000. There has been a decrease of 2.7 per cent. in the number of passengers riding on the Elevated since the 10-cent fare went into effect, he added.

COAL A PROBLEM.

Mr. Dana specified the coal problem as another of the many difficulties facing the road. He said the road uses 250,000 tons a year, that its contract calling for coal at $6 a ton expires August 1, and that the price is likely to be materially advanced when the contract is renewed.

Attorney Louis Dembitz Brandeis, counsel for the carmen and a member of the board, Mr. Dana produced data showing the number of resignations during the past five years. In the year ending April 30, 1914, there were 692 resignations; in 1918, 1,417; in 1919, 1,431, and in 1920, 252.

During the examination of General Manager Dana, Chairman Doherty of the board asked him if there is anything about the attitude of the men which would lead to the belief that their services were not all they should be. He answered that probably 15 per cent. of the employes could be considered inefficient.

FEARS HIGHER FARE.

He admitted, under questioning by Attorney Vahey, that he regarded the men as a whole, good carmen.

Mr. Dana declared that if the wages remained at their present level the company would be able to meet all its deficits, and continue operating. He said that charging more than ten cents for a car fare "is a grave matter."

He stated that an increase in pay to the employes would mean either the getting of more revenue or the passing of a "radical rearrangement." He stated that the zone system would be unpopular in Boston.

The letter of Mayor Peters to H. Ware Barnum, counsel for the Public Trustees, which he stated that carmen are not entitled to more wages until they give a service which will enable the company to show a greater earning power, was introduced as evidence today.

HILLQUIT WINS OVER RADICALS

Socialist Party Appeals to Voters' Logic Rather Than Class Prejudice

By International News Service.

New York, May 12.— For the first time in recent years, the leaders of the Socialist party abandoned today their assortment of stock phrases, such as "down with capitalism" and "dictatorship of the proletariat," and prepared to go out and bid for the votes of laboring men this year by appealing to their logic rather than to class prejudice.

The ultra-radical or "left-wing" faction of the party has been defeated on the national convention floor and the conservative element led by such men as Morris Hillquit, Victor Berger, Oscar Ameringer, Cameron Kirby of California, and Judge Panken of New York, is in control of the party's destinies.

The Hillquit program for political action during the coming campaign, which triumphed over the "Soviet" program of J. Louis Engdahl and his associate extremists, is designed to appeal particularly to the "man in the street." It is a typical "American" platform, with all words of more than two syllables barred from it.

Hillquit is confident that the Socialist party vote in 1920, regardless of a possible coalition with the labor party, will be upwards of 4,000,000. A cablegram today from Jean Longuet, noted French Socialist, who is now touring the country, had received loud admittance, said:

"Am sorry reactionary administration prevents me bringing you American comrades fraternal greetings from the French party. We all welcome declaration of Debs, hero and martyr of the American proletariat. Expect magnificent vote in Presidential battle."

DENIES BOSDAN STOLE RECORDS

Attorney Barnes Says Dean Case Documents Were Obtained Legitimately

Clarence A. Barnes, counsel for James J. Bosdan of No. 56 Bellevue street, Newton, who was arrested on the charge of keeping government records, issued a statement today explaining his client's connection with the case.

According to this statement, the records had to do only with the Dr. W. K. Dean murder at East Jaffrey, N. H., August 13, 1918, and it will be shown that they were obtained in a legitimate way, Barnes declares.

Attorney Barnes asserted they were not original records, were unsigned, appeared to be carbon copies and bore no mark identifying them as government reports.

He said that as the editor of a news syndicate Mr. Bosdan was ready to receive news items from ally legitimate sources. And the reports "were obtained through sources which would lead the ordinary man to believe that there was no good reason why they should not be accepted and used."

Attorney Barnes further stated that Mr. Bosdan was a Greek, and not a Turk, although born and brought up in Turkey. He said that Bosdan's only connection with the Lawrence strike was in his capacity as a reporter, and that he never belonged to an anarchist society.

Other arrests are expected in connection with the alleged theft of secret documents from the Department of Justice files, but they are preliminary to more important developments relative to the International tragedy.

Under the government's complaint, while Bosdan is technically accused of larceny of government property, Federal officials admit that they do not feel that he was implicated in the theft, but that he merely received the originals or copies of important departmental reports which he is alleged to have tried to sell for a profit to newspapers.

STONE'S WIFE IS LEFT DESTITUTE

Furniture Taken From Cambridge Home; Is Now Living With Her Parents

Tales of a deserted wife and children and of a young girl whom many supposed legally married to him, feature the latter day life of William F. Stone, treasurer of the Embossograph Products Corporation of Boston and Salem.

Stone is under arrest in New York on an indictment warrant charging the larceny of $25,000 from the company.

Since his flight from Boston several weeks ago his family has been reduced to destitution. Last week a man who held a mortgage on the furniture in the Stone home in Cambridge foreclosed.

Almost every stick of furniture was removed. The only article of any value left was the crib in which her baby was sleeping. Up to that happening Mrs. Stone had remained at home confident that in the end her husband would emerge clean in the case.

Today she is with her parents. Her husband is in the Tombs Prison, New York. Inspector Silas F. Waite of police headquarters has gone after him.

Pinkerton operatives are confident that the girl in the case will be located. She and Stone had lived together more or less since the first of the year, and in the circle in which they moved it was generally supposed they were married. At one time she lived in Winthrop and again in Cambridge.

When she and Stone resided at the Westminster for a short time during the Winter there were numerous gay dinner parties over which she presided. Since Stone's flight from Boston she had been in his company. In fact, it is believed that up to within a comparatively few days the couple were together in New York city.

Who Keeps the Baby, Mother or Father?

When love dies between father and mother which should have the child?

If the mother happens to be young, should the care of the child be taken up by the mother-in-law?

Should the woman be not suffered to bear the child be denied its possession?

Those are some of the questions raised by the plight of Mrs. Maud Alice Chapman, of No. 94 Warren street, Lynn, a twenty-one-year-old war bride who seeks custody of her sixteen-months-old girl baby, Florence Bertha May.

The baby is in possession of Mrs. Frank Chapman, of No. 17 Fairfield street, Lynn, mother of Mrs. Chapman's husband, Frank.

"The baby is mine. I love her," said the young mother. "Mrs. Chapman today would do anything for that baby. She loves her without question. There must be some laws in this great, big America which say that a little baby belongs with all its love to its mother, who bore it."

Mrs. Chapman is English and her ways are different, as are the ways of many girls brought up in an older country.

At the General Electric Company, where she works every day, she recounted the history of one war bride.

"I met my husband when he was a soldier in the British army, and I was just seventeen, a worker in the munition factory at Pitfield, Hampton. We loved each other, and I married him, four years ago. The war went on, and then he went home, we lived with my people. Then, after the peace, we came over here and lived with my husband's people, here in Lynn.

"It all went fairly well till about six months ago. Then he wanted me to go to work. 'To help get money to furnish a home,' he said to me.

"We got enough furniture for a kitchen and a bedroom, and then we lived there on $25 a week. Then I got my baby while I worked. After a while he said to me that I had been there long enough. That was tired of being married, and was going to live with his people.

"You're too young to keep baby," he said to me; 'my mother can take care of her better.'"

The little mother wept. She couldn't hold back the tears any

DEATH THREATS BRING GUARD TO U. S. COURT

Providence, R. I., May 12.—As a result of death threats, Department of Justice agents, deputy marshals and police guarded the Federal Court here today, as Joseph Insardi and Nathen Rembner, wholesale dry goods merchant, gave their testimony in the case against the two Morelli brothers, alleged to have robbed the New Haven Road of goods valued at millions of dollars. Rembner and Insardi have been indicted, together with more than fifty who will be tried later. Rembner's alleged confession is said to contain the admission that he acted as receiver for the Morelli gang.

CARRANZA SAFE, SAYS OBREGON

Guarantees Fugitive President Peaceful Trip From Mexican Territory

Washington, May 12.—The support of the American Federation of Labor for the Mexican revolution is being sought, General Alvaro Obregon, representative of General Obregon, was in Washington seeking a conference with Samuel Gompers, but was unable to see him.

Vera Cruz, May 12.—General Obregon's revolutionary government has dispatched a commission to locate Carranza and guarantee him safe conduct out of the country.

If the former President accepts the offer, he will be escorted to Vera Cruz and put aboard a steamer bound for a foreign port. Carranza was supposed today to be between Espesenza and Apizaco on the Mexican National Railway.

He is accompanied by 4,000 troops, who remained loyal, and went with him into flight. Carranza has not been assassinated, nor will he be, it was stated authoritatively today. It is not considered likely that there will be any fighting between the forces of the new government and Carranza's small army.

President Carranza took 27,000,000 of government funds with him when he fled Mexico City, according to Mexican press dispatches received here today. The dispatches stated forty-three cannon, ten trains of equipment and one train bearing funds were captured when rebels swooped down on the fleeing Carranza escort. Senators and deputies have opened discussion to determine whether the presidency has been vacated.

San Antonio, Tex., May 12.—Piedras Negras is in the hands of the revolutionists. The Federal garrison revolted.

STRIKE BATTLE AT TAUNTON

Five Arrested on Assault Charges Following Injuries Inflicted on Two Policemen

Taunton, May 13—Clashes today between strikers, strikebreakers and the police of Taunton and Raynham, near the mills of the Taunton Cotton Company resulted in a number being injured. Five of the strikers were arrested on assault charges, two policemen and a striker slightly injured.

The trouble started when the loyal help reported for work. A large number of strikers, mostly Portuguese, who work out especially afternoon, attempted, it is said, to prevent them from going into the mill.

A hurry call was sent to the Taunton police. When the police arrived, the strikers crossed over the bridges to the Raynham side, where after crossing the centre they stood jeering the police, and effectually blockaded the passage of other strike-breakers from the Raynham side from going to work. The strikers held the bridge successfully for a time.

DU PONTS LEAD NEW FIGHT FOR DYESTUFFS BILL

Washington, May 12.—Efforts to revise the dyestuffs bill, killed in the Senate last week, are to be made by the du Pont interests of Delaware and Congressmen who sought the imposition of a high tariff to keep foreign dyes off the American market. The bill was set aside by the Senate because of protests that enactment would bestow upon the du Ponts a monopoly and complete control of the American dye industry. Now it is said the dye manufacturers are preparing to launch a campaign to get an enormous fund to put the bill through.

BOSTON MEN ESCAPE FROM BURNING AUTO

Samuel Silberberg, Boston wholesale furrier; and his father, Hyman Silberberg, proprietor of the Providence Fur Shop in Providence, narrowly escaped death when the auto in which they were riding from Boston to Providence turned turtle and was burned on the road between Attleboro and South Attleboro. The younger man was pinned under the steering wheel, but with the aid of his father got free just as the car burst into flames. They saved $3,000 worth of furs that were on the back seat of the car. They continued to Providence in the machine of G. E. Harding of Framingham.

"BRITISH NAVY HELPLESS," WILSON CABLED SIMS

my view, this is not a time for prudence, but for boldness, even at the cost of great losses." Daniels continues to quote the President's cable:

"In spite of your cables you have quite properly advised us of the sort of aid and co-operation desired from us by the admiralty. The trouble is to their plans and methods do not seem to us efficacious. I would be very much obliged to you if you would report to me, confidentially, of course, exactly what the admiralty has been doing and what they have accomplished, and add to the report your own comments and suggestions based upon the independent thought of the whole situation, without regard to the judgment of any one on that side of the water."

COMPLAINED OF CONVOY.

"The admiralty was very slow to adopt the protection of convoy and it is not now, I judge, protecting convoys on an adequate scale within the danger zone, seeming to keep small craft with the great fleet. The absence of craft for convoy is even more apparent on the French coast than on the English coast and in the channel.

"I do not see how the necessary military supplies and supplies of food and fuel oil are to be delivered to British ports in any other way during the next few months than under adequate convoy. There presently will not be ships or tankers enough and our shipbuilding plants may not begin to yield important results in less than eighteen months.

"I believe that on what I have said these instructions absolutely and entirely to yourself, and that you will give me such advice as you would give if you were handling and if you were running a navy of your own.

(Signed) "WOODROW WILSON."

In reply to the letter Admiral Sims "sent a long cablegram of generalities," Daniels declared. "He told of a 'combined sea and land attack to force back the German right flank and deny them the use of Zeebrugge as a provisioning base.' This was the kind of a bold and audacious thing the President and the department had been urging before our entrance into the war, but even then, as Admiral Sims said, it had not been 'definitely decided by the war council.'"

SUGGESTIONS RELATED.

The attack on Zeebrugge which was made later would have been successful if it had been attempted at an earlier date, "when the Navy Department was urging such a bold plan, all of which Admiral Sims first thought impracticable," Daniels declared.

Daniels charged that Sims, in his reply, referred to the plan of the United States Navy for preventing the egress of the submarines as "impractical."

"Admiral Sims cabled the President that the proper policy to pursue was to adopt the suggestions he had made to the Navy Department, most of which had been decided upon and put into operation before Admiral Sims had suggested them," Daniels continued. "He added that we should adopt an organization similar to the British squadron, that we should virtually transfer all naval authority to his headquarters in London, and that he should be given a larger staff. He was careful not to say, though, that as fast as American destroyers arrived at Queenstown, the critical area as he described it, British destroyers were withdrawn.

"Sims endeavored to lure the President of the United States into the feeling that regardless of future development we can always rely upon the support of the British Navy," Daniels continued.

QUOTE SIMS REPORT.

He quoted from Sims' report to substantiate his charge as follows:

"Depend upon the fact, which I believe to be true, that regardless of any future developments we can always count upon the support of the British Navy. I have been assured this by important government officials."

"The statement only shows how completely Admiral Sims was under the spell of British influence," Daniels said. "This attitude of acceptance of everything British undoubtedly accounts for his opposition to the creation of an independent American army, and his idea that the American troops sent abroad should be used as an annex to the British army and his quoting of General Biles as recommending this policy.

"When General Biles read the published testimony that Admiral Sims had quoted him as advocating such policy, he wrote at once to the Secretary of War a letter in which he said he had at no time made any recommendation for the brigading of American troops with the British Army, but had done actually the reverse."

Daniels read a letter sent by Admiral Sims to Ambassador Page in which Sims urged the teaching of school children history which would not cause them to despise other countries, and incidentally referred to the displeasure of the President "with my reply to his cablegram." Sims said in his letter to Page that the reply "did not change (the President's) opinion at all, and that he regards me owned by the Admiralty and so pro-British that he considered the advisability of replacing me with some other officer."

SUGAR HELD TO RAISE PRICE

Millions of Pounds Received This Week Withheld From Consumers

arrived at the port of Boston the first two days of this week.

Despite that fact thousands of people were unable today to purchase sugar. Consumers who found sugar were often forced to pay a prohibitive price.

Sugar is deliberately being kept from the market for the purpose of forcing up the price, and it is predicted that a 30-cent level will be reached shortly.

Import figures for the four months just ended show an increase of more than 5,000,000 pounds per month over last year, the average being 47,362,449 pounds.

The average for the same period last year, on the other hand, was only 42,123,863 pounds.

These conditions exist despite the fact that a Federal drive has started against sugar speculators. Boarders and profiteers, resulting in the arrest of officials of Sherburne & Co. of Boston, C. H. Finley & Co., New York, and George H. Camp, Philadelphia.

At the same time retail prices throughout Greater Boston show a wide range, quotations being given of from 22 cents to 30 cents a pound.

Peculiarly enough the most acute shortage and some of the highest prices prevail in the North and West Ends, where the consumers are least able to meet the demands.

It was declared that small grocers are unable to purchase large quantities of sugar because the jobbers' asking price is exorbitant, and this price apparently fluctuates as much as the retail price.

Instances have been found where a store on one side of a street sells sugar for 22 cents, while its rival on the other side charges 24 cents. In Dorchester a difference of four cents a pound in the retail price was found, while in Lawrence sugar agents wanted to sell wholesale lots for 28 cents.

LUCKY TO GET ANY.

The generally accepted method seems to be to impose "all the traffic will bear," and if a consumer complains he is told how lucky he is to get sugar at all.

Certain of the storekeepers have reported that since the passage last week of the act penalizing those who force customers to purchase other commodities in order to obtain sugar, there has been a falling off of jobbers of wholesale sugar.

Proprietors of stores joined with others equally well informed in declaring that the bulk of the sugar is in the hands of speculators, who despite the government's campaign will force the price beyond the reach of practically everyone unless drastic action is taken.

AMHERST STUDENTS TO PUBLISH A COMIC PAPER

Amherst, May 12.—June 8 marks the advent of a new humorous paper to be published by the students of Amherst College. The paper, which is to be called the "Lord Jeff," will be published about five times a year. The men in charge for 1920-'21 are: L. C. Esty, editor-in-chief; K. P. MacKenzie, art editor; K. A. SAMPLE WRAPS & COATS

Made to Sell up to 75.00 Wholesale

32.50 AND 42.50

Coats from a N. Y. Highbrow, who wouldn't allow us to use his name because he sells to two Boston promdetcores party store neighbors to us. We bought 'em so we can sell 'em for party close to half their prices. Wraps, capes, coats, dolmans of velours, Llama cloth, suedine, Bolivia, etc., made to sell wholesale up to 75.00 each. There were 447 coats in the lot, most of 'em mentioned in this ad for 32.50, 34.75 and 36.75, but the real expensive ones of which there are 48 (no two alike), are in two lots at 42.50 and 45.00. We cannot fill mail orders on these sample coats.

CORSETS

ACCORDION PLAITED CAPES 14.75

When this was written one of these same capes was displayed in one of the ground-floor stores windows "marked down to 25.00." Can you imagine how much it must have been before the "down"? New accordion-plaited capes are made of wool serge 54 inches long, 184 inch sweep, has large roll collar of satin with satin yoke lining, and ties at neck with heavy silk cord and tassel

NEW SPRING COATS 12.75

These came in the lot of 447 coats (read about the ones at 14.75, 16.75, 22.50 and 42.50 in this ad). The lot at 12.75 are all new sport styles, in a dozen different models. Oh, yes, there are some of them with brushed wool Tuxedo collars, too. Try to match 'em at the 18.50 to 22.50 sales around town

WOMEN'S & MISSES' COATS 14.75

These came in the lot of 447 coats, too. Some are of American (that word alone guarantees the quality) Tweeds, half lined with rayon silk, made with belt of self goods and large pockets. Another style of wool polarine cloth, brand new model; a stylish tailored covert cloth sport model and a few timetoners

Another Lot of COATS 16.75

Besides the capes mentioned in the top lines, there are about all-wool poplin full-length, new style coats in Polin cloth, and Polin cloth coats made to sell wholesale for 30.00. The coats are made with silk stitched cuff with buckle, belt with eight rows of silk stitching and silk stitching on pocket flaps. A big wide collar sets the finishing touch to a marker for...

What Was the Dead Man's Message?

$200 for the Best Answer
$100 for the Second Best
$50 for the Third Best

"I was becoming somewhat sleepy," says Dr. Arnold, who relates the story, "when I was aroused by a blood-curdling shriek, and rushing in found my patient sitting up in bed with a look of unspeakable agony mixed with terror; so though he had been distracted by some frightful vision . . . . He tried to speak and made some motion with his hands which I could not understand. I had barely time to reach him and feel for his pulse, when with one appalling glance he fell back dead."

What did the "mystery man" try to tell? What was the shuffling noise heard in the death chamber? How did the key get into the dead man's hands? Who turned back the sheets?

These questions remain unsolved to the end in the absorbing mystery true story entitled "A Dead Man's Message," which appears in the May issue of TRUE STORY Magazine.

For the best solution of this story we will award a prize of $200; for the Second Best $100; for the Third Best $50. Solutions must be limited to 1500 words, and the three winning solutions will be published in a True Story Magazine.

Write to the Contest Editor TRUE STORY Magazine, 110 West 40th Street, New York City, for further details of contest.

PERFECT RENT BILL SOUGHT

Dissenters on Judiciary Committee to Confer With Hays on "Favored" Bill

That every effort will be made to make the Hays anti-rent profiteering bill a perfect piece of legislation, designed to protect tenants and bona fide landlords alike, was assured when arrangements were made today for a conference between Representative Martin Hays and the few members of the Joint Judiciary Committee who dissented from the favorable report on the Hays bill.

After the executive meeting, at which the Hays bill was favorably reported, one of the dissenting members suggested a wish to make a unanimously favorable report on the bill, and suggested a conference with Mr. Hays.

At this conference will be discussed means of making the Hays bill as nearly perfect as the combined brains of the judiciary committee can make it before it goes back to the House of Representatives, which will probably take place tomorrow.

SEE NEED OF RENT LAW.

This wish of the committee to give a unanimously favorable report on the bill confirms the success of the campaign of the Boston American, which organized the Boston American Tenants' League, a State-wide voluntary organization, to awaken the legislators to the pressing need of remedial legislation and aid in the passage of some such comprehensive measure as that proposed by Representative Hays.

That the legislators are thoroughly awake to this need and are willing to back Mr. Hays is shown first by the favorable report of the majority of the judiciary committee on the Hays bill, and second the desire of the dissenting majority to come to an agreement on all sections of the bill so that the favorable report may be unanimous.

The favorable action of the judiciary committee, and the courteous action of the few dissenters seems to mark the beginning of a victorious end to one of the most important and most popular campaigns ever conducted by the Boston American in the interest of the people of Massachusetts.

WILL SOON BE MADE LAW.

From all indications within a few days the Hays bill, with a few changes, which will serve to increase its usefulness to the public, will go on the statute books of the Commonwealth, and the American's fight against rent profiteering, conducted so strenuously the past two months through the Boston American Tenants' League, will be won.

That rent payers everywhere continue to take the most active interest in the fate of the rent legislation was evinced at a meeting of the Back Bay Tenants' League, where a representative of the American was given a rising vote of thanks for explaining the progress of the bill and by several requests from other bodies for representatives to tell them of the progress of the legislation.

Casey, formerly attached to ex-Mayor Curley's office as secretary, has been voluntarily transferred from his $1,400 a year job as stenographer in the supply department to a $4 a day job as bath attendant in the park and recreation departments in order to complete the law course at Boston University.

How to Have Red Lips!

The girl with red lips and pink cheeks may be thankful, for both denote health —vigorous, forceful, magnetic health, and while it may be impossible for some to attain owing to morbid states of health, yet a vast majority of seemingly healthy young women and men are almost colorless, because of a lack of red blood corpuscles. When the blood is improved and enriched with these red corpuscles, the weight increases, and a beautiful tint appears on the cheek, while the lips assume a healthy red color. Many physicians and hosts depend upon organic iron-grain hypo-nuclains tablets which are said to invariably increase the red blood corpuscles after a course of treatment lasting several months. The nervous system and general health also improve rapidly. The best apothecary shops supply this tablet in sealed packages.—Advertisement.

MAJOR SCHOFIELD GETS ITALY'S CHEVALIER CROSS

Major O. L. Schofield of Newton Lower Falls, prominent physician of Wellesley and Newton, has received word of a decoration conferred upon him by the King of Italy. In recognition of eighteen months' service rendered the wounded in Montove, Italy, Dr. Schofield will receive the Cross of Chevalier of the Crown of Italy. The doctor organized an ambulance company of Wellesley men, which was assigned for service in Italy.

ROBBED OF $1,000 ON WAY TO WED CAMBRIDGE GIRL

Richmond, Va., May 12.—Robert Byron Whitman, overseas veteran, returned to Richmond after wandering about the streets of Washington hungry and sleepless for two days. He had been robbed of $1,000 and beaten in Washington while on his way to Cambridge, Mass., to marry Miss Lillian Scrant of No. 196 Erie street, that city. The wedding was set for last Wednesday. When he did not arrive the bride telegraphed to his family and then his plight was discovered.

TO STOP LIQUOR SMUGGLING

Customs Department Changes Tactics; Seeks to Indict 50 Boston Offenders

Reversing their customary policy, the United States customs authorities announced today they would ask for indictments of nearly fifty Boston men caught smuggling small amounts of liquor from vessels that docked at this port.

Hitherto it has been the custom to seize the liquor and release the smuggler with a warning, with the result that thousands of containers of intoxicants are in storage.

The applications for indictments will be presented at the next sitting of the Federal Grand Jury. At least twenty of the indictments, it was said, would be sought for teamsters and longshoremen caught smuggling individual bottles from the White Star liner Canopic which was tied up at Commonwealth Pier last week.

Other cases, it was stated, would be those of men who attempted to carry off small quantities of liquor from Cuban sugar ships, and fruit steamships from Jamaica and Central America.

CAR SHORTAGE DELAYS FOOD

Commerce Commission Told of Acute Conditions in East and Midwest

By International News Service.

Washington, May 12.—Railroad tieups at important centres in the East and Middle West, seriously hampering industrial activity and retarding delivery of food, fuel and other necessary supplies, were reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

In the face of this serious car shortage on all lines and disturbing factors arising out of the "outlaw" strike, members of the commission recognized that drastic steps must be taken by the roads to prevent acute food shortage and shut-down of factories in many districts.

A conference of executives of the railroads probably will be held to agree upon an embargo plan making for freer movement of essential commodities.

Reports told of serious labor trouble imminent through forced shutdown of factories for lack of coal. The coal shortage has become more menacing. Coal output decreased, reports said, by shortage of cars needed. Lack of transportation has become acute. Mines in many districts are producing only 50 per cent. of capacity. This is resulting in enforced idleness among the miners and loss of wages.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the nonsensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c.

A 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent. Send the coupon. Make this test for your teeth's sake, then see for yourself what it does.

Stain Your Teeth

And See the Film Which Wrecks Them

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Stain your teeth, as your dentist does, with an iodine solution. You will see dark patches, probably. And those are film. There is more film which you don't see.

Film is that viscous coat which you feel with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The tooth brush does not end it. The ordinary tooth paste does not dissolve it. So much of it remains and may do a ceaseless damage.

There lies the cause of most tooth troubles. That is why so many brushed teeth discolor and decay. Tooth troubles are constantly increasing, and the reason lies in film.

Their Greatest Enemy

Film is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus night and day, while you feel that teeth are kept clean, that film may be doing ceaseless, fearful damage.

These facts have long been known. Dental science has for years sought a way to fight film. But periodic cleaning in the dentist's chair seemed the only real remover.

Now science has discovered an efficient film combatant—one for daily use. Able authorities have proved it by convincing tests. Leading dentists all over America are now urging its adoption.

Now the method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent—a modern, scientific tooth paste. Its use has spread until millions of teeth show its benefits. And a 10-Day Tube, for home test, is being sent to anyone who asks.

We Apply a Digestant

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to day by day combat it.

Pepsin long seemed impossible. It must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. But science has found, after years of research, a harmless activating method. And now this efficient film combatant can be every day applied.

Quick, Visible Results

The results of Pepsodent are quick and apparent. You can see them in the mirror, you can feel them with your tongue.

Millions have already made this test. Now you owe it to yourself and yours. Compare the new way with the old ways. Judge between them by the visible results. Then say which method your home should employ.

This ten-day test is a pleasant lesson which one never can forget.

Look in Ten Days

Note the Luster

We urge you to make this ten-day test. Millions have done it already.

On every hand you see today the glistening teeth which Pepsodent can bring. Make your own teeth like them, then decide if you always want them.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how the teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

This test will be a revelation. It will show you the folly of cleaning teeth in inefficient ways.

Mail the coupon to us today.

Two letters that speak for themselves

THE SIGNAL CORPS SCHOOL
Camp Alfred Vail, N. J.
April 12, 1920.

Dear Rodin,

Yes, I am in the Army now, and here at Camp Vail, learning telegraph operating and telephone and telegraph repeater work. I like the life and really believe I am fitting myself for a good paying job when my enlistment is up.

The work is laid out so that it reaches the average man and you don't have to be a high-brow to start in.

The school now has ten commissioned instructors, three consulting engineers from civil life, and twenty-four non-commissioned instructors and eighteen privates.

I am a private myself but I can be promoted up to one hundred money, for everything you practically clear money, for everything you need is free.

How are James and Hines? Give my regards to your father.

Let me hear from you some time.

Yours as ever,

Dewey

My address is:
Pvt. Dewey L. Stratford,
7th Field Signal Battalion,

Man seeks the Job

AMERICAN TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY
195 Broadway

New York April 9, 1920.

Colonel Edgar Russel,
Department Signal Officer,
8-10 Bridge Street, New York City.

Dear Sir: In response to your suggestion we have inquired into the character of the training given at the vocational school which the United States Army has established at Camp Alfred Vail, New Jersey.

We find that the courses in practical mathematics, electricity, magnetism, fundamental telephone work and telegraph operating are laid out and conducted upon such a thoroughly practical basis that they provide an excellent preliminary training for men desiring to enter the telephone business.

We are calling to the attention of the operating companies associated with this Company the fact that men who have taken this preliminary training will be available for employment as they return to civil life, and we are recommending to their favorable attention such of these men as . . . have a discharge bearing the indorsement of either "Very Good" or "Excellent" and a certificate showing that they have successfully completed the course.

Yours very truly,

E. Theil

Dorothy Dalton's Beauty Chat

Miss Dorothy Dalton, the actress famous the world over for her beautiful complexion, says: "Any girl or woman can have a beautiful, rosy-white complexion and smooth unwrinkled skin like mine if they will follow my advice and use Derwilo, a simple toilet preparation. I use it because it imparts instant beauty, is easy to apply, absolutely harmless and has a marvelous effect upon the skin. One application proves it." Be sure to read Miss Dalton's interesting story of how to quickly acquire a beautiful complexion, soon to appear in this paper. In the meantime get Derwilo at any toilet counter and try it today; you will be delightfully surprised.

CITY ADOPTS SETTLED TREE PLANTING POLICY

The Park and Recreation Department is to follow a settled policy in planting trees so that a large number may be added each year to Boston's streets in the improvement of highways, it is announced through the Mayor's office. Chairman John J. O'Callaghan of the street commission has notified the Mayor that during the course of future street improvements the places where the trees are to be planted will be marked so that the Public Works Department will not cover them with brick or granolithic and make necessary the expense of digging up the sidewalk.

Relieve Your Rheumatism For 25c.

NR does it by improving digestion, assimilation and elimination—the logical way.

NR Today—Relief or No Pay

There are three vital processes of human existence,—the digestion of food, the extraction of nourishment from it and the elimination of the waste.

Let anything interfere with these processes,—let them be interrupted or improperly carried on, and sickness of some kind follows.

Poor digestion and assimilation means failure to derive full nourishment from food and that in turn often means impoverished blood, weakness, anemia, etc. Poor elimination means an accumulation of waste matter which poisons the body, lowers vitality, decreases the power of resistance to disease and leads to the development of many serious ills.

Rheumatism,—due to some interference with the process of elimination, failure to get rid of certain body poisons,—cannot be expected to yield to any medicine that fails to correct the condition responsible for it. Could any reasonable person expect to rid himself of rheumatic pain as long as rheumatic poison is allowed to remain in the body.

Think of this. It explains the success of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) in so many cases where other medicines have failed. Thousands are using NR Tablets every day and getting relief. Why pay five or ten times as much for uncertain things? A 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets), containing enough to last twenty-five days,—must help you, must give you prompt relief and satisfactory benefit or cost you nothing.

And Nature's Remedy is not only for the relief of rheumatism. It improves digestion, tones the liver, regulates kidney and bowel action, improves the blood and cleanses the whole system. You'll feel like a new person when you've taken NR Tablets a week. You've tried the expensive medicines and doctors, now make the real test. You'll get results this time. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

REED ATTACKS MARINE BILL

Senator Fights Proposal to Sell U. S. Merchant Ships

Washington, May 12.—Senator Reed of Missouri opened fire on the merchant marine bill. He aimed at the proposal to confer to sell the ships in the manner stopped by the injunction obtained by William Randolph Hearst. Senator Reed said in part:

"Here we are proposing to increase their powers when we have just seen the spectacle of the Shipping Board attempting to sell outright the entire fleet, and that was prevented only by the intervention of an individual citizen. I refer to Mr. Hearst.

"Had it not been for the temporary injunction, recently made permanent by the courts, the whole $3,000,000,000 fleet of ships would probably be disposed of at junk pile prices today."

He concluded, "That was never the business man's system in undertaking to handle a great enterprise. Before we turn this wonderful fleet over to a Shipping Board whose past performance is surely nothing to boast about, let the Senate stop and consider. The commerce of the nation and the world is at stake."

Defies Age by Using Howard's Buttermilk Cream for Complexion

This Pretty Girl Tells Druggists Not to Take Anyone's Money Unless This Delightful New Vanishing Cream Quickly Shows a Decided Improvement.

Buttermilk Cream creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that whilst it turns the dullest, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and masses red or rough hands or arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most keen atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crows feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream. There are thousands of such boosters for Sulpherb Tablets and that is why hundreds of thousands are sold by druggists every year. Mr. Robert Clemence, 233 S. Wilbur avenue, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "I have taken 3 packages of Sulpherb Tablets and my bowels are moving regularly now and I am a great deal stronger than I was when I started taking them. I was all run down and went from the lone, continued stomach, liver and bowel trouble. I know 4 or 5 men that work with me, were troubled the same as I was. I told them about Sulpherb Tablets and now they are all taking them, and say they are the best medicine they have ever tried, etc." Sold by all druggists. WE GIVE MERCHANTS LEGAL STAMPS

This is the second of a series of advertisements published by the Committee of American Shipbuilders to assist in bringing about a right solution of questions vital not only to the future prosperity of shipbuilding but equally vital to the safety and prosperity of the Nation.

Why our ships should not be sold now

TO meet the needs of war a great American merchant fleet was created; we spent $3,000,000,000 for 10,000,000 tons of shipping.

For the first time in half a century the American flag is back upon the sea. Shall we keep it there?

These ships are now owned by the United States Government. It is agreed that they should be sold to private American owners.

But the United States should not sell its ships until the conditions under which they are to be operated are determined.

These conditions will only be known when shipping legislation now under consideration becomes a law. This law will affect ship values as well as settle our future on the sea.

If our ships are sold in advance of Congressional action the Government must accept less than it would receive after Congress adopts a progressive policy.

Bargain prices to present purchasers would give them unearned profit if new laws make American ships more valuable than they are at present.

Pending legislation declares that our policy is "to do whatever may be necessary to develop and encourage" our merchant marine.

American ships cost more to build and to operate than do foreign ones. Congress is planning to overcome these disadvantages.

Until this is done, it is evident that the ships we now have should not be dispersed to face competitive conditions which, prior to the war, resulted in the decline of our merchant marine to insignificance.

STREET CONDITIONS CALLED WEST ROXBURY MENACE

Aroused to fighting pitch by the cynical neglect of Roslindale and West Roxbury by the city government, prominent residents are preparing to take drastic action to get relief from the wretched trolley service, broken-down sewage system and almost impassable streets which disgrace those suburbs.

Charges are openly made that the districts mentioned are being deliberately ignored by certain officials, and that the residents there are being punished for their independence of the political bosses.

Both in Roslindale and West Roxbury the streets are almost unbelievably bad for any part of a great city, according to leading business men.

Sections of Washington street, on the main highway from Boston to Providence, resemble a shell-torn battlefield more than a thoroughfare in a civilized community.

HOLES ENDANGER AUTOS.

Huge holes make sections of the streets in West Roxbury and Roslindale actually dangerous to autoists.

Those holes are in some cases at dangerous curves. When it rains the pools which result are almost big enough for the urchins of the neighborhood to swim in, several indignant property owners declared today.

All these disgraceful conditions exist, despite the fact that $750,000 has been appropriated for street improvements in West Roxbury alone. The money is not being spent. Taxpayers wonder if this fact is due to the failure of the "pet" contractors of the Boston ring to get the work.

So bad have conditions become, and so registered is the faith of West Roxbury and Roslindale residents in the city government, that responsible business men are considering an appeal to the State to build the roads in that section.

Senator John Jackson Walsh, a resident of West Roxbury, characterizes conditions there as shameful, and the result of a "niggardly" policy on the part of city officials.

Agitation over the demoralized trolley service and poor sewers is scarcely less than that aroused by the conditions of the streets. All these questions come up at a meeting of the West Roxbury Citizens' Association tomorrow night. Similar organizations all over the two neglected suburbs are getting ready to enter the fight.

WORSE THAN FOR 30 YEARS.

F. D. Rand, proprietor of the largest provision store in Roslindale, says that the streets of both West Roxbury and Roslindale are in worse condition now than at any time during the thirty years he has been in business.

President Charles Foley of the West Roxbury Citizens' Association called the meeting of the executive committee for tomorrow night at which the ways and means of bettering street conditions will be discussed.

Mr. Foley said: "The streets of Roslindale and West Roxbury are in deplorable condition. Three-quarters of a million dollars have been appropriated for streets in these parts of the city, but not much of it is being spent. I have called a meeting of the executive committee of the West Roxbury Citizens' Association for Wednesday evening and will take the matter up at that time. It would be hard to specify which streets are worst. Nearly every street in the whole district is in bad shape."

"The streets of Roslindale and West Roxbury couldn't be in worse condition," said Mr. Rand, who is one of the most public spirited men of the district. It would be hard to say which are worst. The whole district is in terrible condition. I have been in business here for thirty years and there has never been anything like it here before. I hear nothing from morning until night but what terrible shape the streets are in. My vehicles are being torn all to pieces on account of it. Something ought to be done to remedy the situation."

VEHICLES WRECKED.

Walter H. Jenney of No. 22 Chilton road, of the Jenney Manufacturing Company, oil dealers, said: "I don't know of a street in West Roxbury or Roslindale that is in good condition. All of them are chock full of holes five or six inches deep. You cannot go over ten or twelve miles an hour and stay on the road.

"Very few automobilists go on Washington street, it is so bad. From a point half way between Forest Hills square and Roslindale square it is very bad. Other streets that are in very poor condition are Centre, Weld and Church. All are main thoroughfares."

LAKES FORM IN STREET.

B. A. Dargo a Boston business man living at No. 52 Fletcher street, Roslindale, said: "Two years ago the city spent a lot of money on Robert street, Roslindale. Now it is full of holes. I never saw a road go to pieces so quickly. The holes are six to eight inches deep. This street is a much used connecting link between Belgarde avenue and South street. Washington street is in terrible condition.

There are regular sewers there. When it rains you could hold aquatic sports on four dozen different lakes between Forest Hills and Roslindale square.

"Centre street at Allendale road is in very bad condition. Morton street, near Forest Hills Cemetery, has two bad stretches. This is a main thoroughfare to Mattapan from Forest Hills. Walter street, near Centre, has holes a yard wide and two or three yards long. When cars pass at this point near the Arnold Arboretum one machine must go into one of the holes to avoid collision.

"South street, another main thoroughfare, is bad all the way out. Even Roslindale square is in need of much repairing. I never drive faster than five to ten miles an hour on any of these streets. I consider it unsafe to do so. Another street which is in very bad condition is Weld street. It is on the main line to Providence. Church street, from South to Weld, is also in deplorable condition. Belgrade avenue is in bad shape.

TAXPAYERS SHOULD GET MORE.

"I believe that the city officials of Boston have fallen down hard, and I feel that the streets, at least the main lines of travel, should be constructed by the state. When the state builds a road it generally stays built, but that is not true of the city of Boston. When they repair a hole in the road all they do is dump in a little asphalt in it and wait for passing automobiles to press it down. Streets all over the city are in bad condition. It seems to me that the taxpayers ought to get a little more for their money than at present."

To Be Continued Tomorrow

What West Roxbury Citizens Demand

Here are some improvements demanded by the residents of Roslindale and West Roxbury:

Better trolley car service to and from the city.
Installation of a better sewage system.
Equal and exact justice by city fathers.
Streets that are free from ruts.
Sidewalks free from mud and other litter.
New surfacing along Washington street.
Expenditure of $750,000 appropriated for improvements in their districts.
High-grade filling for street depressions.

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

Thousands of Children Suffer From Worms and Their Mothers Do Not Know What the Trouble Is.

Signs of worms are: Constipation, sour stomach, deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional grippings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short, dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Mrs. H. N. Roberts, 193 Asylum street, Flint, Mich., used Dr. True's Elixir for her little baby girl when she was sick. Mrs. Roberts wrote to Dr. J. F. True & Co.: "My little girl is relieved of her worms." And in a later letter wrote: "Baby is fine and I think it was your medicine (Dr. True's Elixir) that helped her." Former Waterbury Policeman Arrested With Three Barrels of Whiskey in Clinton

Clinton, May 12.—Calvin R. Travers, a former policeman of Waterbury, Ct., was arrested here today following seizure of three barrels of whiskey in a touring car he was driving. The whiskey was worth $2,500.

Travers is held on a technical charge of driving an automobile without a license. He will be prosecuted for alleged illegal transportation of liquor.

The man was arrested by Patrolman James I. Quinn, who noticed that the touring car was lurching and swaying as if too heavily loaded. In the machine, beside Travers, were Mrs. Robert Smith of No. 14 Suffield street, Worcester, and her young nephew, Harold Richmond.

At the police station Travers refused to say for whom he was transporting the liquor.

TRUCKS READY FOR TOUR

Dealers Cover Route to Complete Plans for Big Event Next Tuesday

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

The regular weekly meeting of the various committees of the Ship-by-Truck tour was held last night. This day morning [illegible] that the men responsible for the success of the trip had done their work well. Everything is coming along in fine shape and the final reports and last details will be completed at the meeting next Friday night.

COMPLETE DETAILS.

Some of the activities of dealers left Boston yesterday morning to go over the entire route of the run to make final arrangements in the various cities through which the trucks will pass.

Lieutenant Colonel Theo. Baker, commander of the expedition, has arranged a [illegible] for the trucks on the [illegible] New York, consisting of [illegible] and [illegible] of prominent leaders. [illegible] trucks will lead the [illegible].

Both [illegible] have bands and trucks representing the respective [illegible] and a [illegible] will accompany the trucks for the entire distance and motorcycle dispatch riders will be in attendance. The trucks will be paraded each night in regular formation and be filled with gasoline for the next day's run.

SO TRUCKS OF RIVAL.

John N. Cole, [illegible] commissioner of Public Works, will make an address on the importance of the movement to the members on reaching Worcester, the second day of the trip, where an elaborate entertainment has been provided.

It is estimated that at least fifty trucks will participate in this run and that it will have great educational value.

The interest displayed by the various cities and towns which are on the route of the trip augurs well for the future of the truck business. Such demonstrations as the practicability of trucks for both long and short haul will do much for the education of the merchants who have not seen their value for this work.

If there is any field in the country that is suited for a great motor truck market, it is New England with its inland manufacturing cities located at both long and short distances from tide-water and railroad terminals.

GIVES HINTS ON BATTERY CARE DURING SUMMER

"Unless a reasonable amount of time is given over to the care of the car, Summer touring resolves itself into one interruption after another" says A. J. Conty, in the May issue of motor. This writer proceeds to discuss the troubles that usually develop in Summer and to indicate the remedies for them. For instance:

"At this time of the year when night driving is so popular, one of the most serious troubles is brought about by the failure of the battery to put full efficiency. It is necessary to bring each cell to level at least once each week. If this is not done the excessive evaporation due to extra charging and Summer heat reduces quickly the volume of electrolyte. The battery ought to be tested weekly, connections cleaned and the cables and wires to the rest of the system gone over."

Apperson Sedanette 'Chummy' and Smart

The four-passenger Apperson Sedanette body, mounted on one of the famous "Anniversary" chassis, is attracting much attention at the local Apperson salesrooms. The upholstery and finish of this model is in keeping with the reputation of the car itself. Many buyers have been looking for a four-passenger closed car that was "chummy" and at the same time had the lines of beauty in body design that stamped it as a high-class product.

ASK MR. FIXIT

Mr. Fixit: Will you either write me through your Mr. Fixit column or personally in detail in some kind of a drawing for [illegible] report I have a special brown tan which I [illegible] perfect satisfaction. I [illegible] I have been told that there is a wax [illegible] that is made for such tops but [illegible] am unable to find any in some of the Boston [illegible] houses. Do you know of the best wax [illegible] for such tops either on the market of that can be made at home?

J. E. F., Bloxham Glass.

Have never heard of a waterproof dressing for rubber tops. There is a dressing made for mohair tops and [illegible]. It is made only in black, [illegible] might use this but it would [illegible] you can get your regular tops with Cadmona, [illegible] course will not restore the color. The dressing mentioned can be obtained at most supply houses or from the Boston Blacking Company.

Mr. Fixit: Will you please tell me the [illegible] with my 1915 Metz car? The engine [illegible] very hot after running about two hours. When I run the car on high gear it vibrates back and forth. When I [illegible] the car by hand the [illegible] back and forth and it [illegible] to [illegible].

F. S. Hall, East Lindsay, Mass.

Your engine is probably out of time. It seems to be set too late which accounts for the [illegible] and [illegible]. Have the gears readjusted. Your trouble is probably [illegible]. Look after the bolts in this. Your engine may be loose on the frame which would account for the vibration. Go over all the bolts on the frame and engine base. You may also have loose crank-shaft bearings.

COMMONWEALTH "4-40" WINNING PUBLIC FAVOR

Frank E Saunders, manager of the retail sales branch of the Massachusetts Motors of No. 1110 Boylston street, distributors for the Commonwealth "4 40" for New England and the Princes for Greater Boston, is greatly pleased with the attention which the Commonwealth is attracting throughout this territory

"The general appearance and riding qualities of this car," says Mr Saunders, put it in a class with more expensive cars' and yet the Commonwealth is within reach of the average motor car buyer.

"The motor is of a powerful four-cylinder type and the car has such special features as a Borg Beck clutch, Hotchkiss drive, and fifty-six-inch rear spring, which gives remarkably easy riding qualities. The body finish is exceptionally good and the best part of all is we have cars for delivery"

SPRINGFIELD AJAX BRANCH IS OPENED

E. D. Winans, New England district manager of the Ajax Rubber Company, Incorporated, announces the opening of the new Ajax branch at Springfield, Mass., and the promotion of former salesman, L M Snow, to position of branch sales manager

Mr. Snow has long been identified with the automobile accessory trade and twelve years ago was appointed assistant secretary to the late E A Gilmore, secretary at that time of the Bay State Automobile Association Since that time Mr. Snow has traveled Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, selling automobile accessories He has made a host of friends who assure him of their hearty co-operation in his new position, and he will soon move to Springfield in order to give the Ajax dealers his assistance in supplying their demands for Ajax products.

ROUTE TO MAINE IS OUTLINED

An Ideal Course from Framingham to City Point Given for "Mrs. C"

Replying to any inquiry from "Mrs C," of Union Park, city, in reference to a direct way from Framingham to City Point, Me., the following route is probably the most direct

From Framingham to Natick to Wellsley Hills. From here follow Washington street to Commonwealth avenue to Cottage Farm Bridge, through Central square, Cambridge and Union square, Somerville, to Revere Beach boulevard.

Then to Lynnfield and through Peabody, Salem, Beverly, South Hamilton, Ipswich, Rowley through to Newburyport. Take the Lafayette road to Portsmouth follow on almost a straight road to Portland, Me.

From Portland go to Brunswick, Bath, Wiscasset and New Castle, Damriscotta and through Rilendon to Warren. By turning northwest of Warren there is a road which goes to Camden, but if, on inquiry, you find this is not passable, go through Thomaston to Rockland and from Rockland to Camden, Lincolnville, Northport to Belfast

WEATHER HOLDS GOLF BACK

Wollaston Course in Best Shape of All Local Links. Two U. S. Women Win

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

If Massachusetts golfers were asked to express themselves concerning the weather they would say very uncomplimentary things, for the clouds have persisted in sending down more rain this Spring than is good for golf courses and golf players' dispositions.

While one of the best things about golf is that it can be played in rain, when baseball and tennis players would have to stop, there has been so much casual water this Spring that the courses are being held back. The golfers expected something better, for they were kept from the links all Winter by the beautiful snow.

Members of the Wollaston Golf Club are fortunate. Their course is situated on high and sandy soil and water drains through it quickly, or runs off just as if it was the back of a duck. The fourteen hole is the only one at Wollaston that does not recover immediately from a ducking. Other clubs are not as well off.

Mrs. Clarence H Vanderbeck and Miss Marion Hollins won their matches in the first round of the British woman's golf championship at Newcastle, County Down, Ireland. Miss Hollins is playing well. Mildred Caverly last her first round match. Second round matches were contested today.

Bat O'Hara, the Irish open golf champion, played his first big match in America today at the Shackamaxon Club in the Metropolitan district, where he paired with Pat Doyle of Deal against Jack Davidson and George Fotheringham.

The American amateur golfers who are going to England are all players of reputation, but they do not represent anything like this country's full strength. Howard Whitney, an official of the U. S. G. A., explained that the Americans were to play a friendly match with graduates of Oxford and Cambridge Universities and that the affair was not to be considered an international competition

The real international competition is golf on the other side will be furnished by Walter Hagen, at Deal, in the British open championship.

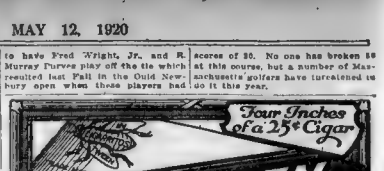
Charles Eddy of the Wannamoisett Club of Providence has made 43 twos since he joined that club. He keeps the record by cutting a notch in his locker door each time he gets a deuce.

* * *

The tournament committee of the Gold Newbury Golf Club is anxious to have Fred Wright, Jr. and R. Murray Purves play off the tie which resulted last Fall in the Gold Newbury open when these players had scores of 80. No one has broken 80 at this course, but a number of Massachusetts golfers have threatened to do it this year.



$1,000 a Day
To prevent defective tires

One hears a great deal about Miller Tires nowadays—about remarkable mileage and unique uniformity.

Do you realize that ten years have been spent in perfecting this tire? And that $1,000 a day is spent just to guard against defects?

Every tire signed

Cords and fabrics are all tested in the most exacting ways.

Not a tread is made until a sample of the stock is vulcanized and tested in the laboratory.

Fifty experts inspect the finished tire. Each must sign every tire he passes, and the man who makes it signs it. If a tire comes back, both these men are penalized.

Over 1,000 tires a year are worn out at the factory in watching Miller mileage.

Eight geared-up machines each run two tires 650 miles per day. Heavy cars, under-tired, are run night and day on the road. Scores of taxis and jitneys are employed in these ceaseless tests.

Five rival makes are constantly compared with Millers. Day after day the Miller makers prove that their tires excel. They know the mileage they are giving, they know that they are uniform.

Million-mile tests

Many large users are comparing Millers in million-mile tests, and over. Often a score of makes are run against the Miller. On stage lines, taxis and trucks Millers are winning enormous contracts by out-serving every rival.

Thousands of users are making comparisons. They put another tire on the opposite wheel and watch the mileage. And all this talk about Miller Tires comes through those comparisons.

It is this uniformity—this constant supremacy—that has placed Miller Tires where they are.

They don't come back

A defective Miller Tire is a rarity. There are numerous large cities from which not a single Miller Tire came back last year.

In Akron—where Millers are made—the Miller Tire outsells at retail all other makes combined. On a retail business of $500,000 yearly, only 15 tires came back last year.

Over 99 Miller Tires in 100 exceed the expectations.

Think what that means to you. The records which Miller Tires make are dependable. What they do for you once they will do for you constantly. In a lifetime's use the probability is you would never get a faulty tire.

MILLER IS THE BEST

Hartley-Bishop Co., Boston, Mass.: "Since we handled Miller Tires we have made a great many satisfied customers. We believe that the Miller, without doubt, is the best cord tire on the market today."

Tread Patented

Center tread smooth with suction cup, for firm hold on wet asphalt. Geared-to-the-road side treads mesh like cogs in the dirt.

Watch your mileage

Don't take other men's figures on mileage. Conditions differ. Learn what Miller gives you on your car. Compare a Miller with the tire you now use. Let the records show which is best.

Such a test will probably be a revelation to you. Perhaps you do not know the service tires should give today.

Don't guess on tires. The Miller factory is spending fortunes to win extra mileage for you. Find out what it is.

When you buy a new car insist on Miller Tires. Twenty car makers now supply them and there is no extra charge.

CARPENTER PROVES HE HAS CHANCE TO DEFEAT DEMPSEY

FRENCH CHAMPION THRILLS 3,000 AT TRIPLE A

By JACK CONWAY.

Georges Carpentier has the speed and skill of an Abe Attell and the tiger-like aggressiveness and punch of a Stanley Ketchel. He is the one man in the world who has a chance to beat Jack Dempsey

The famous French heavyweight thrilled some 3 000 fans at the Armory A. A.'s show at Mechanics' Building by his wonderful exhibition of boxing against Jules Lenrers, Belgian middleweight champion. Lenrers, rated as one of Europe's great fighters, was completely at the mercy of his celebrated opponent.

Carpentier showed he can hit from every angle, that he is lightning fast and that he does not waste any effort. If he is able to hold Dempsey at bay for five or six rounds, he will probably be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

Dempsey has won all of his big fights in a few rounds. He has never been obliged to battle over the long route like Carpentier. It is doubtful if the American would retain his terrific punching ability after five or six rounds. If his punch lost its sting, as would probably be the case, Carpentier would win. But if Dempsey should land a right-hand punch early in the bout, we would feel sorry for Georges.

French Champion Shows Marvelous Speed

The Frenchman showed marvelous speed in his exhibition here. It did not seem possible that a man weighing 15- pounds could move around a ring with such rapidity. Carpentier hits straight and true. He hooks his punches much like Sam Langford did when in his prime.

In the fourth round of his exhibition, Carpentier let drive with a short, sharp right-hand punch. The blow landed with a thud on Lenrers' jaw and the latter went to the canvas. He was assisted to his feet by Carpentier, who apologized for putting so much power behind his blow.

Carpentier has a wonderful pair of legs and long, powerful arms and muscular shoulders. His head is small, while his face, handsome when in repose, is catlike once the bell sounds. The Frenchman darts from his corner in panther fashion. He apparently believes in knocking out his opponents as quickly as possible.

Carpentier's Interest in Surroundings Keen

While waiting for the bout to start, Carpentier displayed a remarkable interest in his audience. His first act in his corner was a smiling expression on his face as is the custom of so many of our fighting men His was interested in everything that was transpiring in the hall. His every look and move proved he is a highly intelligent and nervous type.

Carpentier is also gracious. When he shook hands with General Edwards before entering the ring, he looked more like a marshal at a college class day than a boxer who aspired to win the world's heavyweight title from Dempsey.

Of course everybody was interested in Carpentier's hair. He lets it grow long in front and then has it combed straight back Years of training keeps the hair in position even during a hard bout. As Georges wears a net over his hair so that it will not get ruffled. When Carpentier showed his curls after the newspapermen they smiled. He asked them what the reason for their merriment, but nobody cared to furnish any information.

The crowd was not as large as had been expected. Apparently Boston boxing fans are not hero worshippers. They like to see fighting men in real contests and not in exhibitions.

Admits "Hero Worship" Is Exaggerated

Jack Curley, who is in charge of the Carpentier tour, admitted that some of the press dispatches sent out from cities where Carpentier has shown were slightly exaggerated.

"An Baltimore more than 5,000 people lined the streets to greet Carpentier," said Curley, "but only 2 000 paid to see him box."

In the old days a ring star could draw thousands of people to theatres and music halls. Times however have changed. The fans will pay fabulous prices to see legitimate bouts, but they don't get enthusiastic over exhibitions.

Jack Dempsey went on the stage after he beat Willard, but his show was a financial failure. Curley, it is said, has guaranteed Carpentier a flat sum on the present tour. If such is the case, the Chicago man is going to drop some of the money he made staging his wrestling matches during the past year.

There were also some regular bouts. Young Chase of Manchester was awarded the decision over Freddy Williams of Dorchester in a spirited ten-round bout. Sammy Schiff of Harrisburg and Joe Butler of Rochester battled ten frames to a draw. Dummy Burns of Lynn kayoed Charley Sheppard of New York in three rounds, while Red Mulkern of South Boston stopped Young Kilrain of the South End in four frames.

YALE LEFT FIELDER OUT FOR MONTH

New Haven, May 12.—Left Fielder Paul Crane of the Yale varsity nine has developed water on the knee and will be out of baseball for a month.

Ajax Confident of Beating Kilonis

Tony Ajax likes his chances against Kilonis at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night so that he has offered to bet his end of the purse on the result, and will go even better and add a substantial sum to this if the Greek cares to accept it. Tony says that he has always backed himself with his own money on the Coast and is willing to do it here if opponents care to accept.

Promoter Tuohey says that interest is very high in the match, and this has been increased by the fact that Waino Kelonen will probably meet the winner at a later date for the world's title.

How Experts Size Up Carpentier

Here is the way Georges Carpentier looked to some of Boston's leading sporting men and boxers:

EDDIE MACK.—Carpentier has everything. He looks like a real champion. He would beat Dempsey sure if the bout lasted more than six rounds. Dempsey has won all of his big fights in a few rounds. Carpentier, on the other hand, has proved he can go the distance.

JOHNNY WILSON, World's Middleweight Champion.—The Frenchman looks like a lady's man. He shapes up more like an actor than a fighter. Of course he looked good when appearing against a sparring partner who didn't hit back. It was a fine act. It would be another story if Carpentier was stopping punches. I would beat him sure.

PHIL POWER (Young Donahue).—Carpentier hits like another Langford. His hook is a beauty. There is no lost motion in his blows. He has a wonderful pair of legs and long, powerful arms. He's the real thing in the fighting line.

PAUL DOYLE.—Can Carpentier take a punch? He is sure to hit his sparring partner with all kinds of blows, but that doesn't mean much. I have seen more wonderful boxers in the gymnasium who were not worth much in the ring. They couldn't take a stiff wallop. Perhaps Carpentier would get the hit with one of Dempsey's right-hand smashes.

REV. ROLAND D. SAWYER, Representative from Ward.—Carpentier should meet Barney Williams or some other good colored racer before he attempts fighting Dempsey. Personally, though, I believe Harry Willis can whip both Carpentier and Dempsey

BENNY MURPHY.—Carpentier has the left of a Joe Jeanette and the right of a Willie Lewis. I saw Carpentier box Jeanette down for the count of nine in a Paris ring long ago Carpentier was a boy, while Jeanette was one of the world's greatest fighters. Dempsey will be mighty fortunate if he avoids defeat if he ever clashes with the Frenchman.

A STUDE and a whole lot of other fans who never saw the Frenchman.—Carpentier is the greatest French heavyweight I ever saw.

BUSINESS LEAGUE TEAMS PLAY TOMORROW NIGHT

All Scoring Is Done in Opening Innings; Fillingim Checks Enemy After That

St. Louis, May 12—Seeing is believing and the West now believes in the 1920 miracle man stuff George Stallings is presenting. Up to the 8 to 2 victory for the Braves over the Cardinals the West had not been acquainted with the first players this season. The Eastern spurt of six straight victories was discounted in this section. The Giants not even a shadow of the old-time machine; the Phillies were doomed as a tail-ender and the Dodgers were just ordinary. That was the way the situation was regarded in this section.

The color has changed. The Braves deserve to be where they are, at the top, although they are not featured with high-priced stars, temperamental athletes and prima donnas.

When Stallings was rushing through to his 1914 pennant he remarked: "All I want is smart pitching and players who will do some thinking" The championship team departed and Stallings had to build all over again

Has Ball Club That Plays Tight Game

He has a team that does not sparkle, but one that plays tight ball. It did against the Cardinals With such terrific hitters as Hornsby, Stock, Bottomley, McHenry and Clemons in the lineup, the Cards present an attack that should scare the opposing pitcher. Dana Fillingim was a bit wild at the start and gave the enemy two runs in the opening inning, but with this rally he still had the lead as the Braves bunched Elmer Jacobs for three scores

For eight innings the Cardinals attempted to get just one run They were choked eight times in succession. In the third they had runners on second and third and one out but couldn't score, as Lavan fanned Clemons was purposely passed and Jacobs fanned.

Fillingim Steadies After Fifth

Then the fireworks gave seven passes. After the fifth he recovered control and the master of the hitters. The Braves tried to increase their total to make it safe, but they were not disappointed when they were stopped inning after inning. They paid more attention to their fielding than anything else and they won out.

By smart baseball, some life on the bases and the wideawake stuff, the Braves pushed the winning run. Powell started with a single, Pick legged it, Mann walked, Cruise scored Powell with a single to right Holke beat out an infield hit, Mann scoring. Southworth forced Holke at centre and Cruise was on his way to the plate A perfect throw would have cut off any walkover.

Stallings had Oeschger and Rudolph warming up for today's game. Today is the choice for the Cardinals.

TWO HOMERS AND TRIPLE FOR BABE

New York, May 12.—Slamming out two homers and a triple in his first three times at bat against the White Sox here, Babe Ruth, mighty Yankee slugger, started his crusade to shatter his own home-run record of twenty-nine circuit clouts, made in 1919

In his first time at bat Ruth hammered a home run into the right field bleachers with Pipp on base. His second hit was a triple to deep right centre. In the fifth inning Ruth, with three balls and one strike on him hammered the ozmeroid into the upper tier of the grand stand in right field.

SOX AND INDIANS HAVE DAY OFF

Fraction of Game Still Separates American League Leaders

By NICK FLATLEY.

The great series between the Boston Red Sox and the Cleveland Indians was just as inviting and thrilling and close and everything, as it was some twenty-four hours past. The time fraction of a game separates the teams up at the crest of the league, and the fur was to fly, so to speak, and all that.

Both teams were defeated by one of our home made nonpareil, Winterspring days, and surely had a vacation. It wasn't to the liking of either outfit, not a bit. The Indians are the ones out but to have contests postponed; the Sox with their pitchers home too numerous look assistance at the double headers that loom ahead

Strong Clubs in West Thinks Speaker

According to the nostile director, the Indians haven't been going above normal speed at all—merely playing their game, and he seems pretty sure that there will be no slumps later on. Tris is of the opinion that all the Western clubs are stronger this season than last—even Detroit. He is ante for the baseful proceedings of the Jennings flock merely as part of the luck of the game and isn't worrying over the Tigers out for a minute.

This, likewise admits that the Red Sox must have quite a ball club to be up where they are. He thinks the Indians will beat them, but doesn't look for any walkover. Both have been getting good pitching, and, as Ralph Perkins didn't object to the day's rest much, and were ready to take up the cudgels this p. m. Sox, Mays, Ehmke, Caldwell and Myers for the hostiles, with the latter having the call if he's warmed up well.

MIKE O'DOWD BEATS JACKIE CLARKE AT CAMDEN

Camden, N J., May 12—Mike O'Dowd outfought Jackie Clarke of Allentown, Pa., in eight of the ten rounds at the Third Regiment Armory

FAST MILE MADE ON SPEEDWAY

Dr. Kilburn, Driven by Scudder, Wins Class C Event in 2:21¾ from Harmony

The fastest mile made on any Greater Boston track this season was trotted at the Charles River speedway, when the black trotter, Dr. Kilburn, driven by W. R. Scudder, won the final heat of Class C trot in 2:21¾, defeating a good field of horses.

Harmony, George A. Graves' trotter, was the steed that made the motor do the trick, being beaten but a nose. Graves made up for the loss, however, by winning Class D with his four-year-old trotter, Peter Langford.

W. J. McDonald's stallion, Un, gave Billy Jackson his first taste of defeat of the season. Billy trailed in each heat, holding his brush until the final quarter, but Un had the wois, stepping the last quarter of the second heat in 30½ seconds

SIEGAL BATTLES ADAIR AT PORTSMOUTH FRIDAY

Portsmouth, N. H., will stage a regular, big league bout Friday night with Nate Siegal of Revere against Barney Adair of New York. Siegal is one of the best welterweights in New England and is now gunning for a match with Young Kiehy. Adair has decisions to his credit over some of the best of the welterweights and feels sure he will stop Siegal's drive.

WHO BOXES CALZONE? WHY, TILLO, OF COURSE

Al Calzone and Frank Tillo, ring rivals, will renew hostilities when they clash in a twelve-round bout at Marlboro Friday night. These youths have already met twice. Tillo won the decision in the first meeting, while in the second engagement honors were even Both boys are in fine condition for their whirl at Marlboro and are expected to put up a spirited battle.

SAIL-STRETCHING SPIN FOR YACHT VANITIE

New York, May 12 — The Vanitie, the yacht which will contest the honor of defending the America Cup against the Shamrock IV. with the Resolute, was given a long sail-stretching spin today.

Corbett vs. Webb at Quincy

The Coliseum A. A. of Quincy have made arrangements for their show tomorrow night. A large crowd is expected to turn out for the Willie Corbett and Freddie Webb bout and the officials have put in 250 extra seats. This looks like the best match arranged at the above club in many months

Mercury Salutes Venus

AT noon today, if you could blot out the sun, you would see a few degrees west of its place in the heavens the planets Venus and Mercury near together. These planetary conjunctions occur with no regard to our convenience, but the astronomer has to keep track of them whether he can see them or not.

THE YOUNG DIANA

An Experiment of the Future

Story of Extraordinary Mystery, in Which the Heroine Holds Key to Youth and Beauty

By Marie Corelli

CHAPTER XIX.—Continued

"WAIT," he said. "You shall not lose yourself in the infinite profound, without knowing something of the means whereby you are moved. This cup, as you see, is of purest crystal, hewn rough from rocks that may have been fused in the fires of the world's foundation. Within it are all the known discoverable particles of life's essence, and when I say 'discoverable' I wish you to understand that many of these particles were not discovered or discoverable at all till I set my soul to the work of a spy on the secrets of Nature. I have already told you that this test may be life or death to you—if it should be death, then I have failed utterly. For, by all the clearest and most exquisite mathematical measurements it should be life."

Smiling, she stretched out her hand.

"Give me the cup!" she repeated. "If it should be death,' he went on, speaking more to himself than to her—'I think it will be more your fault than mine. Not voluntarily your fault, except that perhaps you may have concealed from me details of your personality and experience which I ought to have known. And yet I believe you to be entirely honest. Success, as I have told you, depends on the perfect health and purity of the cells—so that if you were an unprincipled woman, or if you had led a tainted life—or you were a glutton, or one who drank and took drugs for immediate effects—the contents of this cup would kill you instantly, because the cells having been weakened and incarnated could not stand the shock of new force. But had you been thus self-injured, you would have shown some of it during these months of preparation, and so far I have seen nothing that should hinder complete victory."

"Then why do we any longer?"—and Diana gave a gesture of visible impatience—"It is more trying to me to wait here in suspense on your words than to die outright!"

He looked at her half pleadingly—then turned his eyes toward the great Wheel, which was now, after sunset, going round with almost sleepy slowness. One moment more of hesitation, and then with a firm hand he held out the cup.

Drained Last Drop

"Take it!" he said—"And may God be with you!"

With a smile she accepted it, and putting her lips to the crystal rim, drained its contents to the last drop. For half or quarter of a second she stood upright—then, as though struck by a flash of lightning, she fell senseless.

Quickly Dimitrius sprang to her side, picked up the empty cup as it rolled from her hand, and called, "Vasho!"

Instantly the tall Ethiopian appeared, and obeying his master's instructions, assisted him to lift the prone figure and lay it on a bench near at hand. Then they both set to work to move a number of ropes and pulleys which, noiselessly manipulated, proved to be an ingenious device for lowering a sort of stretcher or couch, cushioned in tent-like fashion and made entirely of the same sort of double stranded silk material in which Diana had clothed herself for her "sacrifice."

This stretcher was lowered from the very centre of the dome of the laboratory,—and upon it the two men, Dimitrius and his servant carefully and almost religiously placed the quiet figure of what now had an appearance of extreme rigidity, but whose beautiful outline still looked alive. Then the cord was drawn up, and the stretcher with its burden swung slowly to and fro, like a cradle, for a few minutes, while Dimitrius and Vasho watched it with eyes that never blinked. Gradually the swinging motion ceased, and the stretcher remained motionless.

Then Dimitrius, with a gesture of command, pointed to the Wheel, and Vasho, with a look of mingled awe and fear, obeyed. Slowly the great Wheel began to revolve, and as it did so, a strange, pale, luminous vapour began to rise from the floor of the crystal cup, filling it to the brim, and then overflowing in a thin, misty stream, which, as it touched the ground, spread itself in all directions, like a creeping fog. Dimitrius watched it with a smile of satisfaction.

"Behold the Elixir of Life!" he said, in a low voice. "Behold the Water of Immortality! Behold the Fountain of Youth! Behold the Secret of Beauty! Behold the Power of Love! Behold the Key to Heaven!"

Vasho, trembling, looked at his master as though he thought him mad.

"Master," he faltered, "is it—is it—death?"

"Not death, but life!" answered Dimitrius. "Life, more abundant than ever it has been to any human being! Life, that shall endure for ages! Life, that shall be the envy of the world!"

Vasho, acting under orders, assisted him as before—and very soon Diana's form was closely swathed from head to foot, only the eyes, mouth and ears being left uncovered. The laboratory was now illuminated only by its own mysterious fires—outside was a dark Summer sky, powdered with faint stars, and every lingering reflex of the sunset had completely vanished. With the utmost care and minutest attention Dimitrius now looked to every detail of the strange canopied bier on which the insensible subject of his experiment was laid—then, giving a sign to Vasho, the ropes and pulleys by which it was suspended were once more set in motion, and slowly, serially and without a sound it swung away and across the dark pool of water to a position just under the great Wheel.

The Wheel, revolving slowly and casting out lambent rays of fire, illumined it as a white tent might be illumined on the night blackness of a bare field—it rested just about four feet above the level of the water and four feet below the turning rim of the Wheel. When safely and accurately lodged in this position, Dimitrius and his servant fastened the ropes and pulleys to a projection in the wall, attaching them to a padlock of which Dimitrius himself took the key.

Then, pausing, they looked at each other. Vasho's glittering eyes, rolling like dark moonstones under his jetty brows, asked mutely a thousand questions; he was stricken with awe and terror and gazed at his master as beseechingly as one might fancy an erring mortal might look at an incarnate devil sent to punish him, but in the set white face of Dimitrius there was no sign of response or reassurance. Two or three minutes passed, and going to the edge of the pool, Dimitrius looked steadily across at the white pavilion with its hidden burden swung between fire and water, —then slowly, but resolutely, turned away. As he did so, Vasho suddenly fell on his knees, and catching at his master's hand, implored him by the eloquent signs of fear, pity and distress, not to abandon the hapless woman, thus bound and senseless, to a fate more terrible than any human being had yet devised to torture his fellow human being. Dimitrius shook off his touch impatiently, and bade him rise from his knees.

"Do not pray to me!" he said, harshly—"Pray to your God, if you have one! I have a God whose intelligence is so measureless and so true that I know He will not punish me for spending the brain with which he had endowed me, in an effort to find out one of His myriad secrets. There was a time in this world when men knew nothing of the solar system—now God has permitted them to know it. In the same way we know nothing of the secret of life, but shall we dare to say that God will never permit us to know? That would be blasphemy indeed! We suffer fools gladly—we allow tricksters such as 'mediums,' fortune-tellers and the like to flourish on their frauds, but we give little help to the man of spiritual or psychological science, whose learning might help us to conquer disease and death! No, Vasho!—your fears have no persuasion for me!—I am thankful you are dumb! There is no more to do—I may go."

Love the Sorcerer

DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY

LOVE is a sorcerer in cap and gown, with a Will o' the Wisp wand. He makes over the little Sit-in-the-ashes, the shabby Cinderella, into the princess at the ball. When the fire of his magic stick touches her image—in you, she is no longer a girl with stray locks that fly, hairpins failing, torn stockings and scuffed heels, lace pettiskirt a-fraying, and fingers grubby. Watch the Ashputtel you know, and see her, when she falls in love, fall to securing her little hands and polishing her hair, and scrubbing her teeth into pearls, until she shines out of her glass a stranger princess.—NELL BRINKLEY.

Mrs. Solomon Says—

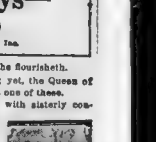
By HELEN ROWLAND

Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

CONSIDER the Empress of the Beauty Parlor, how she flourisheth.

She dissembleth not, neither doth she flatter; yet, the Queen of Sheba in all her glory was not more powerful than one of these.

She greeteth the flapper and the dowager alike with elderly condescension; for she knoweth all their secrets, even the hairs of their heads, and all their heartaches and domestic troubles; and NOTHING is hid from her. (For that which a woman would not confess unto the spouse of her bosom, she will confide to her hairdresser without shame.)



Her hair is brighter than a May sunrise, and her fingertips are a shining light in a dreary world. Also she weareth seventeen curls and is haughty.

With her hands she worketh wonders and miracles, turning the blonde from ash to roan, and the brunette from chestnut to henna.

The matron goeth in a hag, and cometh out a flapper, the flapper approacheth a babe, and departeth a vampire.

She removeth the obstinate freckle and causeth the wild eyebrow to lie down and be good. She beateth Nature at her own game and giveth time the merry ha! ha!

Others may sing thy praises and extol thy charms, but SHE telleth thee the TRUTH!

She saith:

"Oh, my dear! What doest thou with ALL those eyebrows? For knowest thou not that eyebrows are passee this season?

"Alas, alas, thy cheek is rougher than a cave man's manners, and thy brow is like a turkish towel. Yet it would not have happened if thou hadst used OUR cream.

"Go to! Thy chin sagseth and thine hair is as lustreless as a last year's joke. And WHO hath done thy finger nails? For they are simply terrible!

"Verily, verily, thou art a SIGHT!"

Yet princesses accept her judgments with humility and are NOT offended!

For in the Beauty Parlor every woman cometh face to face with her own soul.

And the secrets of a Masonic Order are not more SACRED than the secrets of a Charm Dispensary, where the women are gathered together in an inviolable pact for the confusion of men!

Then give the hairdresser the fruit of her labors, and let her works praise her. For her price is above rubies!

When Hearts Are Trumps

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CYNTHIA'S hand was on her brother's arm, and he responded promptly to the pressure of the firm fingers.

"Why, my dear fellow, of course it is convenient!" Arthur declared. "We all three want you"—with a swift glance at Barbara.

The girl colored as she caught his eyes, then looked away. But she said nothing. Had she meant to confirm the suspicions implanted by Cynthia in Arthur Paige's breast, she could not have done so more effectually.

"It looks as if Cynthia was right," the uncle reflected as the four resumed their walk uptown. "John Brandon and my little girl! And I never suspected it!"

"You are sure," John Brandon was saying in a low voice to his silent companion—"that you do not object in the least to my coming up to dinner this noon?"

Barbara strove to speak naturally. "Why should I, Mr. Brandon?" she smiled. "Have I ever seemed to object to having you with us?"

"No," the man admitted gently, "you never have. You have been most kind."

CHAPTER IX.

BARBARA did not reply to her companion's speech, and, glancing down at her, he saw her face suffused by a delicate blush.

He drew in his breath sharply. He had not supposed that a mere word would affect her like this. Was she really starting, now and for time? Yet it must be so, or she would not let her proper feelings be hurt by her distaste for—

He could not know that, for up the street, Barbara Paige had discerned a familiar figure approaching. It was not until Robert Elliot paused to speak to Mr. and Miss Paige that John Brandon recognized him. Then he greeted the young man kindly.

"I was not aware you were in town," he said. "How long shall you be here?"

"I take the 4:30 train to New York this afternoon," Robert answered, his eyes meeting Barbara's for an instant, then glancing off. "You have not been to church?"

Miss Cynthia's words were more like an accusation than a question.

"Why no, I have not," the young man admitted. "I have been for a long walk far into the country. You see, I do not get many chances for such walks when I am in New York. And, really, Miss Cynthia, when I am there I go to church pretty regularly."

We summer-field people go very regularly," Miss Paige observed, Significantly. "Don't we, Arthur?" turning to her brother.

Arthur Paige looked uncomfortable. He had a fund of conduct for himself, but he disliked to pose as a model to others.

"We have always had that habit, my dear," he evaded.

John Brandon came to the young man's rescue.

"I tell the truth," he confessed, "I can understand that a day like this must be a tremendous temptation to the man who is shut into a great city two weeks after week. And sure that if I were a New Yorker, I would slip away into the green fields whenever I got the chance."

Barbara flashed upon him a smile that made him catch his breath again.

Not Goodbye

"So would I, Mr. Brandon!" she declared. "Goodbye!" with a little nod at Robert.

"It is not goodbye," Robert objected. "I shall stop by for a few minutes after dinner, if I may—at about half past 7."

"Yes, do," Arthur Paige urged. "We shall be glad to see you."

"If we are in," Miss Cynthia amended.

"Why did you say that?" her brother asked as he and she moved on homeward. "You have no idea of being out, have you?"

Cynthia lowered her voice. "John Brandon may ask us to go motoring with him. He has bought a new car, you know, and Friday is the other day of taking Barbara out."

But not of taking all of us, my dear," Arthur ventured.

"If he goes this afternoon, I think he will take all of us," Cynthia said crypticalty.

"Perhaps Barbara would rather go alone with him," Arthur suggested.

"I would rather that she did not drive alone with him on Sunday," was the tart rejoinder.

"What is the difference between going alone with him on Sunday and on any other day?" the man argued.

His companion frowned. "My dear brother, I wish you would have some faith in my judgment of what is right and proper. I know more of the conventions for a young girl than you do. Nice girls do not drive alone with men on Sundays."

Getting a Free Ride

Whether Arthur Paige was convinced or not, he was certainly silenced. Nor did he speak again until he and John Brandon were left alone in the drawing room while the ladies went upstairs to remove their hats. Then the conversation was purely impersonal. Arthur did not wish any confidential or intimate talk just now.

Miss Cynthia was not averse to such conversation, but managed to have a few words with her guest when her brother ran up to his room to get some cigars.

Quickly, yet with tact, she mentioned Brandon's new car, asking if it was as satisfactory as he had expected it to be.

"It must be excellent if it is as comfortable as your old automobile," she remarked reminiscently. "I have delightful memories of the rides you gave us in that."

"You must try my new car," he said—as she had intended he should.

"We would love to!" she replied. "Let us hope for pleasant weather, so that we can go soon."

"Nothing could be pleasanter than this day," he said, as if a sudden inspiration had come to him. "Would you and Arthur and Barbara be willing to take a drive this afternoon?"

"We would be delighted!" she exclaimed, as if the idea of such a thing had just burst upon her. "What a charming plan! I know Arthur would enjoy it—and, as to Barbara," with a significant smile, "well, there is no need of my telling you how happy she would be."

"Arthur?" as her big brother entered the room, "Mr. Brandon wants us to go out in his new car this afternoon. Isn't that lovely? I have accepted for all three of us."

Barbara, coming through the hall, heard the words and stopped short. Had Aunt Cynthia forgotten that Robert was coming at three thirty?

Her aunt's greeting showed that she had not forgotten. "My dear," she announced, "we are all going motoring just as soon as Robert Elliot has made his call and gone. As he has a train to catch, he will stay only a few minutes, of course. So you will wait until he has left before starting on our ride."

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

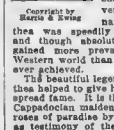
DOROTHY

ONE of the quaintest and most whimsical of origins is that from which Dorothy sprang. Theos and Zeus, father of the gods, were identical terms in ancient Greece. From Theos came many masculine names and one feminine: Theodora, which signified "gift of God," or "divine gift." Curiously enough, the reversal of the name into Dorothea was speedily accomplished and though absolutely incorrect, gained more prevalence in the Western world than Theodora has ever achieved.



Copyright by Harris & Ewing

The beautiful legend of St. Dorothea helped to give her name widespread fame. It is the story of the Cappadocian maiden who sent the roses of paradise by angelic hands as testimony of the joy she was reaping. Dorothea became a patron saint in Germany, and England straightway adopted her name because of Massinger's powerful drama. Dorothy was the next step in her evolution and Dolly became a popular diminutive. Indeed, so common was it in usage that it became the generic term for wooden children or puppets in the time of Elizabeth Tudor, and hence our own "Dolly" or doll, beloved of the small girl.

Dorothy became a Puritan name at the height of the reign of the House of Hanover, and was used by Mrs. Dorothy Cromwell and other Roundhead daughters. France called her Dorothee, while Germany preferred the original Dorothea, and Italy omitted the aspirate and made her Dorotea. England and America favor Dorothy with its fluffy diminutive, Dolly.

"The Evil Eye shall have no power to harm
Him that shall wear the diamond as a charm."

Saturday is her lucky day and 2 her lucky number, while the flower assigned to her is the daisy, signifying innocence.

1000 FORESTERS TO CONVENE

State Meeting Will Be Held at Holyoke; Irish News of Greater Boston

Approximately 1,000 delegates from all sections of the State will attend the forty-first annual session of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, to be held in Knights of Columbus Hall, Holyoke, Wednesday, May 26. Headquarters will be at the Hotel Monatuck.

Features of the convention will be the presentation of a number of amendments to the constitution submitted to the credentials committee by subordinate branches; report of High Chief Ranger William F. Thomas and financial officers and the election of a board of government for the ensuing term.

Daniel H. Maguire, high secretary-treasurer of the organization, has charge of the arrangements for the convention.

Friends of Ireland from all sections of the city will tonight attend the party to be given under the direction of the Robert Emmet Branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom in Hibernian Building, No. 184 Dudley street, Roxbury. Bridie O'Connor has charge of the arrangements, assisted by Margaret Connolly, secretary, and William P. Dwyer, treasurer.

Branches of the Irish Progressive League of New York, of which Dr. Gertrude Kelly is head, are being formed by young women interested in picketing work, in and about Boston. Two or more prominent women orators representing that organization are due in Boston shortly to assist local committees in enrolling new members.

Judge James Deery of Indianapolis, who is national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, will be tendered a dinner by National Vice-President Richard J. Dwyer and officers of the Suffolk County board at the Quincy House, Saturday evening, May 22. The following night Judge Deery will be the principal speaker at a demonstration held under the auspices of the order in Faneuil Hall.

Irish and kindred societies in Medford will meet Sunday afternoon in the Medford Theatre, Medford, and form a branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom. Miss Mildred Frazier will preside and it is expected that Thomas H. Mahony of Boston will be the principal speaker.

A resolution condemning atrocities in Ireland by British soldiery was passed by the newly formed Irish Pickets' Association in Roxbury.

The drive for new members inaugurated by the Irish National Foresters' Benefit Society has been extended.

Don't Spoil Your Hair By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes up every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

Stocks Weak in New York; Call Money 8%; Foreign Exchange Steady

PRICES MIXED IN BOSTON

Home Market Is Sluggish All the Forenoon; Usual Leaders Are Dormant

Stocks were lethargic in Boston when the local exchange opened, a large proportion of the lasties dealt in starting at unchanged quotations. Otherwise the market was irregular at the start. It did not alter to any extent during the morning. Anaconda new stock sold at the highest price it has yet reached. But it was not active. Eastern Manufacturing showed some life and advanced. Lacking stocks were weak, but did not recede much. Coppers were very dull, and the majority of those traded in sold off. The usual leaders were dormant. It was a very uninteresting market throughout the forenoon.

Amoskeag was up 2 at 87, and point or more gains were also made by Torrington, New River preferred and St. Mary's Mineral Land. Fractionally higher stocks included American Telephone, Eastern Manufacturing, Green Tap and North Butte.

Calumet & Arizona was off a point, and lesser losses were shown by Copper Range, East Butte, Quincy, Arizona Commercial, National Lead, Libby, Swift & Co. and Boot & Van Derveort.

CURB MARKET DULL

Trading on the Curb was as dull as on other exchanges at the opening and later. An unusual number of issues sold at unchanged prices. Depressed oils were neglected and business in silvers was on a small scale. Mutual Trust continued to be a leader, but it was weak this morning. Mutual scrip also declined. At the start, gains were made by Arizona Silver, Universal Silver, Monarch and Eureka, while weak stocks were Black Hawk, Boston and Montana and Majestic.

At the end of an hour, Monarch was up 5 cents at 62 cents, Arizona Silver, 7 cents at 33 cents and Canada Mexico, 1-3 at 11, while declines included Mutual Trust, 3-4 at 2¾, Boston and Montana, 2 cents at 77 cents and Verde Mines, 3 cents at 16 cents.

Dividend Declarations

Atlantic Refining Company declared a quarterly dividend of 5% a share, payable June 25 to holders of record May 21.

International Nickel declared quarterly dividend of 1 per cent on the common, and 1¾ per cent, on the preferred, payable June 1 to holders of record May 12.

A dividend of 87 per cent has been declared on common stock of Northern Texas Electric Co., payable June 15 to stock of record May 26.

Michigan Iron Forge Co. declared regular monthly dividend of 50c a share and an extra dividend of 50c a share, both payable June 1 to holders of record May 15.

MOTOR AND OIL ISSUES DOWN

Losses Extend Throughout the List at End of a Turgid Morning

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York at noon, the market having reacted in the second hour. At the end of the morning prices were at the lowest level. Motors and oils were off the most, but losses extended throughout the list. Trading was very quiet, first hour transactions totalling less than 150,000 shares. Call money renewed at 8 per cent, and the announcement of that rate caused general selling. Foreign exchange rates were steady, opening quotations being, demand sterling, $3.83¾; francs, 14.82; lire, 19.62, and marks, .67.

MARKET MIXED AT OPENING.

Teh market was mixed as to price movement at the opening, and continued to be irregular during the first hour. It was uncertain as to tone, weak as being suggested at times only to be offset by contrary indications. Early trading was very quiet and somewhat dull. Fluctuations were narrow, gains and losses being fractional in most instances at the outset and later. Fractional gains showed the most strength, while as a class motors were the weakest. Crucible, Mexican, Baldwin, Atlantic Gulf, Punta Alegre and Industrial Alcohol showed the largest fractional gains, being up from one to two points at their best. Steel common lost a point or more were American Woolen common, American Locomotive, Central Leather, United States Oil, Shell Transport and Studebaker. Rails were steady but very quiet. There was hardly anything done in coppers.

HIGH RATES HALT SPECULATION.

The 10 per cent. money rate of Tuesday halted speculation this morning. The report that 12 per cent. was asked was erroneous, but the figure actually attained was sufficiently high to daunt bulls while bears have been made cautious by evidence that the technical position of the market is likely to make covering costly if the upward movement urgent. Liquidation recently is said to have been on a scale that operators are supposed to be more strongly held at present than at any time this year. It is reckoned that important interests are steadily accumulating stocks on recessions and are keeping buying good supplying enough on occasion to keep prices down. This is an ancient story, but often true.

TO ENTERTAIN VISITING INVESTMENT BANKERS

SILVER OUTPUT MAY INCREASE IN MEXICO

The revolution in Mexico may have the effect of lowering the price of silver. One reason for the advance of white metals has been decreased production in that country since Carranza assumed power. For some time prior to 1914 Mexico's silver output approximated 74,000,000 ounces annually, but following those years it dropped to 30,000,000 ounces a year.

It is figured that with a government more friendly to Americans silver production could be increased. Mining by foreigners has been conducted under great difficulties and native operators have had to close mines in many localities.

St. Louis Fur Sale Opens

The great Spring auction by the International Fur Exchange has began at St. Louis and from 4,000,000 to 7,000,000 raw pelts valued at more than $30,000,000, are on sale there. Furs sold on opening day, or any day, are said to have brought from 20 per cent. to 30 per cent. less than February sale prices.

County and City Loans

Chelsea, Mass., will receive proposals until 11 a. m., Wednesday, May 19, for the purchase, at discount, of $ temporary loan of $100,000, dated May 14, and payable November 10, 1920.

Attleboro, Mass., will receive bids until 10 a. m., Saturday, May 15, for the purchase, at discount, of a temporary loan of $50,000, issued to mature in part May 14 and maturing Dec. 14, 1920.

Hamilton, Mass., will receive bids until 10 a. m., Tuesday, May 25, for the purchase of $300,000 3 per cent. Water Department notes, dated June 1, 1920, and maturing June 1, 1925.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, May 12—The cotton market was irregular at the opening, first prices being 18 points off to 10 points on primary news. Liverpool was unchanged to 3 points lower, the chief buyers, while Wall Street and Liverpool sold. At the end of twenty minutes the market was quite steady, with prices a few points net higher on buying attributed to the raise in the Central bank discount rate. May, 40.20; July, 37.60; August, 36.90; September, 36.00; October, 34.80; November, 34.90; December, 34.60; January, 34.60; March, 34.90; May, 35.00 bid.

DECLINE IN ALL ACTIVE ISSUES

Important Interests Are Borrowing Money Directly from Banks for Market Operations

By BROADAN WALL.

Reprinted U. S. Patent Office.

New York, May 12.—Stocks closed heavy yesterday with material net declines in nearly all the active issues. Money opened at 7 per cent, and loaned as high as 10. Just before the closing, however, the lending rate was reported on the Curb market at 12 per cent, and this caused more selling. The damage was done before a correction could be made. Foreign exchanges were all strong. German marks got above 2 cents.

Mexican affairs were still in a condition of mystery, there being no definite reports as to whether Carranza had been captured or not up to the time the market closed.

Official announcement was made that the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific jointly had borrowed $25,000,000 at seven per cent on the security of rolling stock held by the Pacific Fruit Express. The railroad strike in New England was in a state of collapse, but strike of electrical workers was rumored. Report from Washington was that the railroads would receive immediate attention both from Congress and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Boston & Maine Earnings

Boston & Maine reports for March that gross earnings increased $1,239,007 to a total of $4,216,184, while the net operating deficit increased $274,871 to $1,684,696. While gross increased $2,629,253 during the first 1920 quarter, the net operating deficit was $2,350,614 larger.

Financial Notes

For the first quarter of this year the Boston Elevated Railway Co. reports a net deficit of $141,560. This is an increase in deficit of $97,497.

North Butte production for the first 1920 quarter was 4,000,000 pounds of copper, 60,000 ounces of silver and 1,500 tons of zinc.

For April East Butte smelter production was 1,500,000 pounds of copper and 60,000 ounces of silver.

Massachusetts charters have been granted to the following corporations: The Haymarket Realty Corporation, capital $100,000; Stockholders—Frederick Winsor, Jr., Boston; Charles Hayden, Boston; Philip Stockton, Boston. Mason Realty Co., of Fall River, capital $100,000; Stockholders—Samuel Mason, Fall River; Abraham Mason, Fall River; Louis Mason, Fall River. Providence, R. I., capital $100,000; Stockholders—Officers of the Hoffman Machinery Co.

The Boston Elevated Railway Co. will vote on May 18 on a proposal to issue $10,000,000 new 5 per cent preferred stock of $100 par value. This corporation by report for the year ended March 31 last showed a deficit for the year of $1,684,696, or $20.60 on par value stock. There shares of the new stock are to be offered to the holders of present stock. It will not be a stock dividend. All the proceeds from the offering will be used to retire $5,018,900, and on January 1 next its surplus was $3,000,000.

Directors of the United Institutions of Savannah, Ga., have voted to issue $1,000,000 of 7 per cent. preferred stock, par value $100, to increase $15,000,000. At the annual meeting officers were elected as follows: Thomas W. Cunningham, president; James W. Murray, vice-president; Thomas W. Cunningham, Jr., secretary; J. Mettlasky, assistant treasurer, and Thomas W. Cunningham, clerk of the corporation. Mr. Jere Cummings was added to the board of directors.

Corporation Earnings

Earnings by the American Steel Foundries for the first 1920 quarter were sufficient to pay common dividends at the rate of $9.80 annually, or $2.45 per share, it is stated. For the first three months this year was only $1,000,000 less than the entire preceding year, when the company was making great profits out of munitions contracts.

For the first quarter the Norfolk & Western Railway reports net after expenses and taxes of $2,625,357, equal to $5.77 a share on 455,000 preferred. In 1919 the net was $606,231 equal after preferred dividends to $1.46 a share on 455,000 common.

The first March quarter of this year the Pullman Co. reports net, for the quarter, $ plus after allowing for estimated Federal tax sinking fund for preferred stock, and are reserved dividends, of $291,261, which is equal to $1.71 share, $50 par, on 85,885.7lb out standing common stock.

New York Sub-Treasury Gain

New York, May 12—The sub-treasury lost $6,150,000 and the banks $7,000,000 on balance today, a total of $13,150,000.

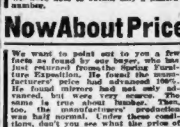
NowAbout Price

We want to point out to you a few facts as found by our buyer, who has just returned from the Spring Furniture Exposition. He found the manufacturers' prices had advanced 100%. He found mirrors had not only advanced, but were very scarce. The same is true about bunkbeds. Then, too, the manufacturers' production was half normal. Under these conditions, don't you see what the prices of furniture will be? We believe the price will be very much higher and advise you to buy now while we still have the goods. In stock that we bought months ago. We are sure it will make a substantial saving later on. Let us show you it is a pleasure, whether you buy or not.



To Back Up

200 Value $37

While we have been telling you about quality, coupled with a reasonable price, we want to call your attention to this very beautiful quality Living-Room Suite, which we feel is a leader of service, picked at random from our immense stock of living-room furniture. This suite is finished in a beautiful mel-brown mahogany with removable imitation Spanish covered cushions; the frames are strong and durable. It is a suite of beauty as well as comfort and service. Compare it and you know you will say that you would expect to find it at higher prices. Going prices $60. Our Uptown price $37.

SOME OTHER VALUES

$75 Velvet Rug $55
$8 Oak Dining Chair $3.50
$125 Parlor Suite $85
$175 Period Bedroom Suite .. $98
These are but a few values taken at random from our big list of bargains. Come in; you do not think it would pay you to make it a visit. But then see us. You will more readily see that our word to you is true, as well as how much sooner we will furnish your home.

LOOK FIRST ALL YOU CAN

Measures That Would Cure Most of the Troubles and Tendencies Which Distress and Alarm Us Today

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including Supreme Court Justies, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Let the People Decide When Next War Shall Be Waged

Section 73 of the Wadsworth Army Reorganization bill, which has passed the Senate, provides that whenever the Congress and the President shall declare "a national emergency" to exist, then the draft laws, conscripting all males between the ages of eighteen to forty-five into military service, shall go into effect automatically.

Before the House accepts this section it should surround it with safeguards.

The principle of universal liability to military service is the only sound democratic basis upon which to engage in war.

If a nation wills to fight it should play no favorites. All its wealth and all its man power should be drawn upon as needed.

But just because this is the right way to fight a war it follows that the only people to decide whether there shall be a war in any case must be those who are called upon to give their lives and fortunes in fighting.

The decision is too important to be left to a few men in the capital of the nation who will not have to hazard their lives or spend much of their own money.

Our most recent entry into war was voted, upon the recommendation of a President who had won his office on a promise to keep us out of war, by Congressmen a majority of whom privately were against the war, but lacked the moral courage to vote as they whispered.

Recalling what that war has cost us in lives, disability, debts, high costs of living, extravagance, disappointed hopes, resultant confusion, sacrifice of liberties, reaction, do we want another to be foisted upon us by law?

If the American people deliberately vote for a war they will not begrudge its cost.

But if a President and Congress should ever try to rush them into a war without their consent we may be sure that the response will be very different from what happened three years ago.

Observe, too, that Section 73 of the Wadsworth army bill does not say "war"; it says "national emergency."

A mine strike, a railroad strike, any large conflict over conditions of employment is liable to precipitate a "national emergency."

Are we ready to have our sons drafted by a reactionary administration to become strike breakers?

We may have a reactionary administration sooner than we think. The forces which have already captured the poor fragments of the Wilson Administration and are threatening to dictate the nominations at Chicago and San Francisco would not hesitate to use the power of mobilization to defend their own personal policies or to carry out their purposes.

They are not spending great sums for political control without a clear idea of what they want.

Two amendments would remove all danger from this section of the otherwise admirable Army Reorganization bill:

(1) In place of the words "national emergency" say "war." Only for a war would use of the Draft law be really necessary. And Congress alone has power to create a state of war.

(2) Add a clause to the effect that, save in the event of an unforeseen invasion of American territory by a foreign foe, the Congress shall not declare a state of war until requested to do so by a majority of the citizens at a referendum. Provision should be made for holding such a referendum when asked for either by a majority of State Legislatures or by joint resolution of the Congress.

A Bill to Make Good Men Out of Boys With Bad Start

There is pending at Washington a bill that has received little publicity and too little attention, but it should have the active support of every thinking citizen. Known as "the Lonergan bill," it permits the United States district courts to grant probation in cases of youthful offenders and first convictions.

Every State provides for suspended sentence and probation for first offenders and in cases where the extreme youth of culprits suggests that mercy may lead to their reformation.

But judges in the United States courts now have no power to suspend sentence nor to put a prisoner on probation. The only possible lessening of the rigors of the law in Federal courts is by the parole laws or the pardoning power of the President. Before parole can be granted one-third of the sentence imposed must have been served.

According to official records 42,188 offenders were disposed of in the Federal courts last year. Of those committed 76 per cent. were imprisoned for the first time. More than 56 per cent. were under thirty years of age and more than 11 per cent. were under twenty.

A great many of the convictions were for comparatively small thefts from postoffices or Federal buildings or from railroad cars during the time the railroads were under Government direction.

This class of acts has brought before the courts and their convictions have sent to prison many boys who, instead of being hardened criminals, had only started on careers in which recklessness was more a factor than viciousness.

But whatever the circumstances or whatever the previous record of the offenders, conviction meant prison life, and prison life means in nine cases out of ten a schooling in advanced criminal methods and influences downward instead of reformatory.

The boy who goes into prison at twenty to spend a few years or even a few months associating with other convicts is almost certain to come out with lower standards, with information of criminal methods he could have learned nowhere else and with an increased tendency to go wrong.

How probation works is proven by State court records. In New York State last year 22,846 persons were placed on probation. Eighty per cent. of these probationers made good and the cost of maintaining the probation, in the salaries of officers and other details, was less than one-tenth of what it would have cost to have kept the offenders in prison.

More Truth Than Poetry

KEEPING DEMOCRACY SAFE

By S. E. KISER

THIS is the home of the brave,
This is the land of the free;
Thompson refused to behave,
So they're shipping him over the sea.
One night he expressed his convictions,
There were spies to hear what he might say;
He made some unpleasant predictions,
So Thompson is going away.

THERE were evils, he said, to be cured,
That point he made perfectly clear;
He refused, so the spies were assured,
To believe that perfection was here.
He likened our methods to Prussia's—
There was poison on that ugly dart—
His future will mingle with Russia's,
For Thompson will have to depart.

THEY will give him no hearing in court;
Six weeks he has languished in jail;
When the spies handed in their report,
He was told that he needn't hunt bail;
Let him lie there alone and defenseless,
To grant him the rights of the knave
Who murders or robs would be senseless;
This is the home of the brave.

THERE were things that he had on his mind,
The man had been thinking, it seems;
A dreamer, they say, and inclined
On occasion to mention his dreams.
He shall have no resourceful attorney
To be making a passionate plea;
He is down on the books for a journey—
This is the land of the free.

HE RUNS a garage,
AND HE'S a fine man,
AND LIKES dogs.
AND ALL sorts of birds.
AND DOESN'T believe.
THAT A kid on skates,
ON A city street,
SHOULD BE empounded,
OR EVEN hanged.
AND HE'S honest.
AND A gallon of gas,
AT HIS garage,
IS A gallon of gas,
AND A quart of oil,
IS A quart of oil,
AND AN hour of time,
IS AN hour of time.
BUT IN spite of all this,
EVERY ONCE in a while,
HE GETS up in the morning,
WITH AN awful grouch.
AND THE other morning,
HE HAD a good one,
AND THE first thing he did,
AS ALL grouches do,
HE HUNTED around,
IN SEARCH of things,
TO COMPLAIN about.
AND IN thirty minutes,
HE'D HOLLERED so much,
THAT ALL of the men,
WHO WORK for him,
HAD ACQUIRED his grouch,
AND ABOUT that time,
I HAPPENED along,
AND THE sun was shining,
AND THE day was grand,
AND I was glad,
AND FULL of peace,
AND THE best of will,
TO ALL mankind,
AND I cried good morning.

TO ALL of the men,
AS I went in,
AND THEY heeded me not,
AND SAID no word,
IN RESPONSE to mine,
AND IT made me sore,
AND I went upstairs,
ON THE great big lift,
TO GET my car,
AND THE cheerful man,
WHO RUNS the lift,
HAD BURIED his cheer,
IN THE boss' grouch,
AND ANYWAY,
BEFORE I was down,
AND OUT on the street,
I HAD some words,
WITH ONE of the men,
AND GOING downtown,
I GOT sore at trucks,
AND STREET car men,
AND EVERYTHING else,
THAT HAPPENED along,
AND THERE'S fifty cars,
IN THAT same garage,
AND IF all of the rest,
TOOK AWAY their share,
OF THE boss' grouch,
I'LL TELL the world,
THAT THAT one grouch,
CAST A lot of gloom,
ON A bright May day.

I THANK you.

THE RELIGION TAUGHT BY OVERALLS UNIONS

By Rev. Roland D. Sawyer

THE GREAT TEACHERS OF THE "IDEA"

"The state of society is such that it cannot be cured by abstract theory or political measures. There must be a return, at whatever personal inconvenience, to a simplicity of conduct and reality of faith."—Godfrey Blount.

THE men and women who are donning denim and khaki as a protest against extravagance and display are the followers of the truest souls of the race. Socrates and Diogenes saw the evils of display and taught "The less we want the nearer we shall be to the gods."

Samuel, Elijah, Amos, Esop were all wandering teachers, pleading for simplicity against luxury, and the later prophets in Hebrew, Greek or Roman land were those who taught the same message as these pioneers.

New Order

Jesus, the founder of the new order of things, made simplicity the corner-stone of His life, and Justin, Benedict, Francis, Fox, Wesley, His greatest followers, all emphasized warm hearts and simple manners as the greater notes in the Christian message. The simplicity and lack of pretense in Franklin, Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln makes them immortal figures in human history. Real greatness is always simple and unaffected. True nobility of life never seeks display and luxury. Penn, Rousseau, Whitman, Thoreau, Tolstoy, Burroughs, Carpenter, Tagore, Jean Henry Fabre, Godfrey Blount are modern teachers of the simple life. What makes the poems of Burns and Whittier so great, they do not reflect the intellectual genius of Shakespeare, Goethe, Dante, Homer or Milton—but they are a thousand times dearer to the race because they tell of the simple things; they express the ordinary feelings and emotions of the average man.

In Early Days

In the early days of the present century the Russian people, touched by the work of Turgenev and Tolstoy, organized an order of Simplification, in which Princess Marie Garetzina became the leading figure; in the same way Godfrey Blount in England started his New Crusade against the artificial.

In these days, when the world is worn and depleted by war, and when the average man, instead of settling down to hard work and simple living, seems to be doing the dangerous thing of loafing and spending, the followers of the great teachers of simplicity who don denim and khaki are providential followers of great souls.

To the Editor

Two Johnsons

Editor Boston American:

Many people think that Hiram Johnson is the same as "Pussyfoot" Johnson. If such people would only read the Boston American and also read a little between the lines I think they would have no difficulty in recognizing the difference and qualifications of the two men. To my mind, Senator Johnson is the man who stands for true Americanism and for the freedom of all peoples and for the rights and privileges of all men, whereas "Pussyfoot" is just the reverse. All the privileges, freedom and the rights that God intended man to have, he is trying to take away.

Must Give Notice

Editor Boston American:

I have been voting the Democratic ticket in South Boston for the past thirty-five years. For the past few years I am heartily sick of the present administration, and at the last primary I asked for a Republican ballot, but the precinct officer refused to give me one, assigning as a reason I was on the ballot list as a Democratic voter and he could not do so. I ask you, sir, as an American citizen, if I was not justified in changing my vote if I wanted to do so.

One Trap Dodged.
A "New Boost."
Audacity, Audacity, Audacity.
One Grand Wedding.

The United States proposes to fortify the island of Tabogo, to protect the Panama Canal entrance. Major Lowther, rising in the House of Commons, asks whether England's attention has been called to this, and whether the matter could be referred to the League of Nations.

Cecil Harmsworth, brother of Northcliffe, pacified the honorable and gallant member by telling him that the United States, in 1918, proposed to erect defences at the entrance of the canal, "but later decided to postpone action." The British government, Harmsworth said, did not think it necessary to interfere.

Most kind of the British government. But suppose this country had fallen into the League of Nations trap, might we not have been requested or ordered to dismantle fortifications at the entrance to the harbors of New York and San Francisco as well as at the entrance to the Panama Canal?

Future historians will read of our national evolution in newspaper headlines. For instance:

"New Boost to Price of Gasoline".

An absolute necessity of industrial life, especially to farmers, is to go up four cents more.

The other day the Department of Justice arrested a haberdasher, accused of selling a raincoat for more than it was worth. The foolish man blew his brains out, instead of hiring a corporation lawyer.

This gasoline "boost" means that there exists in the United States a power to tax without representation, and to a tune that makes the old taxes of King George seem silly. But that doesn't interest anybody, apparently.

Suppose Hiram Johnson should issue this announcement:

"When I am elected, I shall spare Woodrow Wilson's life."

The average American would say: "Hiram Johnson is crazy, or I am."

In Mexico, Obregon, who succeeds Carranza as President, says he will spare Carranza's life, and everybody in Mexico says: "See what a gentle, kind-hearted man we have selected. He isn't even going to kill Carranza."

President Wilson's secret order to the navy shows that he had adopted the motto of Danton, the French Revolutionist, "Audacity, audacity, always audacity." He ordered the navy to force the fighting against submarines, even if it cost half the fleet, his instructions being, "to win by audacity of method."

Fortunately, the navy dealt with the problem more economically. But there is no doubt that audacity, especially facing irresolution, is the greatest force.

It captured Quebec for Wolfe, took Washington across the Delaware, Columbus across the ocean, Caesar across the Rubicon, Alexander through the line of Persian elephants, and it is apt to take Woodrow Wilson through the third nomination fortifications in San Francisco.

There was a grand London wedding yesterday. The King and Queen were there. When you say "King and Queen" in America you always refer to George and Mary. The King and Queen of Belgium were also there. They flew over from Brussels. Lady Cynthia Curzon, daughter of the British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, former viceroy of India, was married to Mr. Mosely, M. P.

The interesting feature of that wedding was seen by nobody on earth. It was old Levi Leiter of Chicago peeking down through the clouds into the Chapel Royal and saying, "My sakes, the family has come along since I used to roll out carpets." Levi Leiter's granddaughter was the bride. Perhaps, above, he is exchanging views with the Medici, also successful in a business way, who married his lovely fat daughter to the French King.

There is excitement in London because nineteen ancient churches are to be torn down and the land sold to provide better salaries for clergymen. The land under one of the churches will bring two and a half millions. Sentimentalists say old churches should be preserved, even though preachers starve.

Church authorities wisely conclude that providence would see a church torn down, on a spot where attendance is slight, rather than see fifty clergymen hungry. "God builds the house that man may dwell therein." It is the man, the preacher, not the church, that is important.
